Editor's Comment

I witnessed first hand the traffic congestion issues in the village recently following Warrington Borough Council's controversial decision to remove the free one hour car parking on the Pepper Street and Davies Way car parks.

While I have to say it was somewhat easier finding a parking space on the Pepper Street car park mid afternoon, it was almost like playing dodgems while driving through the village, with various vehicles parking illegally on the road sides, making it difficult to negotiate the village centre.

Then on Dane Bank Road, double parking was making it extremely difficult and dangerous for vehicles to pass.

The various car parking issues and concerns are highlighted elsewhere in this edition.

I am aware local councillors and indeed myself, have been in dialogue with the powers that be at the town hall to try and come up with a solution to the problems.

One suggestion has been to re-introduce the free one hour during the day and implement charging in the evening – to balance the books, although I am sure this wouldn't go down too well with the business owners who rely on the evening economy in the village.

I suspect whatever the outcome it will be impossible to please all of the people all of the time.

But one thing is certain, with all the austerity and the extra savings Warrington Borough Council have to make in the coming months, they will be looking to generate income at every opportunity.

Meanwhile I see the former Post Office premises are now officially up for let.

The sooner it is re-opened the better, as its closure has proved to be a double whammy for some retailers, who tell me they had a poor Christmas, blaming the car parking charges and the closure of the Post Office, which had a footfall of over 400 people a day!

That's a lot of people to lose from coming into the village!

'To let' sign goes up at post office

A "To Let" sign has gone up on the closed Lymm Post Office premises in the centre of Lymm – and Post Office chiefs have repeated that they are committed to restoring the service as soon as possible.

Retailers interested in running a post office for the village are being urged to come forward.

A spokesman for the Post Office said: "We would like to apologise for the inconvenience caused by the temporary closure of Lymm Post Office following the resignation of the postmaster.

"We would like to reassure customers that we are working hard to restore the service as soon as possible and are committed to maintaining services in the area."

Lymm Post Office closed suddenly in November – along with the long established stationery business in the same building which had changed hands some time previously.

Anyone interested in taking over the site and incorporating the post office into their business is asked to call 0845 266 8790 or email NTquestions@postoffice.co.uk or visit the website runapostoffice.co.uk

Tree work

PLANNING chiefs have given the go-ahead for work to be carried out on trees in a conservation area off Domville Close, Lymm.

They have agreed that a Leyland Cypress and a Cedar can be felled and that an Ash and a Beech can be reduced by seven metres.

School extension

PROPOSALS to build a single-storey extension at Statham Primary School, Lymm, have been submitted to borough planning chiefs.

The scheme would give the school a new entrance and extra car parking would also be provided. An existing water tower would be demolished.

Kids Planet celebrate Nursery Group of the Year award

LYMM based Kids Planet Day Nurseries is celebrating after winning the NMT Nursery Group of the Year Award 2016.

The judges chose Kids Planet because they could translate their Ofsted rated 'Outstanding' nurseries into real, tangible examples. Their powerful exposition of education for parents, and community engagement across all socio-economic groups sincerely reflected their values.

The 14th consecutive National NMT Nursery Awards was held in London and once again celebrated the very best in the Under 5's childcare/early year's sector.

NMT Nursery Awards 2016 is an annual event organised by Nursery Management Today, the leading business publication in the nursery sector and sponsored by key companies providing services in the sector. The Awards are designed to reward excellence in childcare and celebrate the very best people in the Nursery Sector.

Clare Roberts, CEO of Kids Planet said: "We are thrilled we have won the Nursery Group of the Year Award for 2016, we couldn't do this without all of our amazing Nursery and Head Office teams. This award is down to all our amazing staff and the hard work and dedication they do within their roles each day.

"We are thrilled to add this latest accolade to our Nursery Group having just recently been recognised as number 1 for quality in the recent Nursery World Chains table."

Family run Kids Planet Day Nurseries provide over 1,700 nursery places across the North West, with the Head Office based in Lymm and it has nurseries in Crewe, Hale, Salford, Liverpool, Lymm, Prestwich, Sale, Salford, Southport, Urmston, Warrington and Widnes, as well as Jeffrey's Corner in Dukinfield and Springhead.

Kids Planet has recently been recognised as number one in this year's Nursery World Ofsted table with 14 of its inspected nurseries graded Outstanding, three with Good grades and one awaiting inspection. Nursery World ranks the 20 biggest nursery groups in the UK by compiling the grades from the latest published Ofsted reports and analysing the findings using a points-based rating system. Kids Planet has been number two in the rankings for the past two years.

The day the shoppers stayed away from village car parks

THIS was Lymm's Pepper Street car park mid-morning on what is generally accepted as the busiest shopping day of the year – the last Saturday before Christmas.

Normally at this time, shoppers struggle to find a space – on any Saturday.

The situation was the same on the Davies Way car park on the other side of the village.

It was a misty morning – but the weather was not enough to keep shoppers away.

The cause, according to a number of Lymm shopkeepers, was the new £1 minimum charge for parking on any of the village car parks for longer than 15 minutes.

Footfall had fallen drastically from the day the charge was introduced, they claimed.

Lymm parish councillor Anna Fradgley was out and about, even if the shoppers were not. She was carrying out a survey of people's opinions.

She said: "The most overwhelming outcome is that people want their one hour free parking back. But what did come as a surprise to me is that many people actually don't mind paying for parking, if they need to stay in the village for a longer period. It's just that they felt that the £1 entry point was too steep for 15 minutes."

"Some traders were already finding it tough, but the reduced footfall is making it worse."

Cllr Fradgley said she believed the borough council could be contravening the Traffic Management Act 2004 by imposing parking charges in Lymm and Stockton Heath but not in other parts of the borough.

This stated that parking charges and fines should not be used as a "local tax" and that all members of the community including residents, traders and the police should be consulted on traffic management needs, as well as economic needs.

She also drew attention to the increased problem of on-street parking in the village.

Areas like Danebank Road, Grove Rise, Rose Bank and Pepper Street were particularly badly affected but drivers were ignoring yellow lines all over the village.

Over the Christmas-New Year period, there was a slight increase in the number of drivers paying to park compared to the first week after the changes came into effect. But shopkeepers believed footfall in the village was still below what would normally be expected.

One trader said: "It is difficult to judge at present because of the aftermath of Christmas and New Year and also the fact that the Post Office has closed. But the introduction of the £1 minimum parking charge is certainly not helping."

The borough council has said it will continue to review the effect of the car park charges up until March.

Any comments or concerns over the changes should be sent to Cllr Hans Mundry, the borough council's lead member for highways, transportation and public realm at hmundry@warrington.gov.uk or write to him at New Town House, Buttermarket Street, Warrington, WA1 2NH.

Win a Hypnotherapy for Weight Loss Programme worth £225

Are you tired of constantly battling thoughts about food, what you should or shouldn't eat, calorie-counting or endless searching for the most effective diets? More and more people are now reaping the benefits of using hypnotherapy for weight loss, to help you to lose weight in a safe and natural way.

Rather than focusing on the loss of weight, you will learn to focus on what you want, your deeper goals, and find your true motivation. You may describe your goal as weight loss but what you really want may be to feel confident, to feel healthy, feel good when trying on new clothes or just to look good on the beach. Hypnotherapy is a valuable tool in helping you to define and understand these deeper goals that will really motivate you.

Hypnotherapy for weight loss also works by changing the subconscious thought processes that make weight loss so difficult. Hypnotherapy enables you to develop new thoughts and a healthy relationship with food, reducing the need for 'willpower' and making your changes more sustainable and long-term. Hypnotherapy for weight loss can help you to lose weight naturally and easily. You are able to understand the bad habits and false beliefs about yourself that have stopped you losing weight before. You can then move forward by developing new habits and beliefs that support your Weight Loss. You deserve to look and feel great!

The benefits of hypnotherapy for weight loss extend much further than the weight loss. You will become more focused and motivated, no longer distracted by the calorie counting or guilt associated with endless diets and food fads. You will find it easier to relax, feel less stressed, more at ease with yourself and others and less prone to comfort eating.

Your therapist, Paula Cornes, will support you through your journey using an integrated approach which is warm, interactive, attentive and compassionate, to enable you to effectively address life's challenges.

To win this fantastic prize, simply email info@cheshirenaturalhealth.co.uk with the answer to the following question:

Does hypnotherapy work on: A) the conscious thought process; or B) the subconscious thought process.

Closing date is February 7 2017.

Drama group to stage 178th show – but still needs new members

A DRAMA group founded in Lymm 66 years ago is appealing for new members to ensure it keeps going.

The Bridgewater Players were formerly known as Lymm Dramatic Society but changed its name when it moved to Thelwall in 1969.

Many of its members and also its supporters still come from Lymm but its productions are now staged at Thelwall Parish Hall.

Chairman Andy Rushman said: "We are desperately short of members to both act or help backstage. We are appealing for new members."

The society was launched with six members in 1951 and its first production was "The Rotters" at the schoolroom in Eagle Brow.

After two or three productions the group moved to the former Lymm Cinema, only to move back to Eagle Brow when productions at the cinema proved to be non-profitable.

In 1968 the society found itself homeless as the hall in Eagle Brow was needed for other purposes. Their last play there was "The Captives."

The following year they moved to Thelwall and, once it became clear it was to become their permanent home, changed their name to The Bridgewater Players.

Their next show - Alan Ayckbourn's comedy "Relatively Speaking" - will be their 178th production.

It opens on Thursday, February

23 and will continue until Saturday, February 25. Tickets are available from Thelwall Post Office or by calling 01925 755846.

Mr Rushman added: "Our main concern, of course, is to continue to entertain you, our audience. We hope that in the past we have managed to amuse you, perhaps frighten you and sometimes even to reduce you to tears, but always we hope we have managed to hold your interest and given you something to think about."

Parish council concern over increased traffic congestion

MEMBERS of Lymm Parish Council are growing increasingly concerned about increased traffic congestion since new charges were introduced on borough-run car parks in the village.

They are hoping to set up a meeting with the borough council to look at options.

Shoppers have seen the previous one hour free period cut to 15 minutes and, at the same time, the minimum charge increased from 50p to £1.

As a result, many drivers are seeking on-street parking places to avoid having to pay.

Danebank Road, Pepper Street, Rosebank and other roads are all suffering from parking problems.

Two parish councillors – deputy chairman John Bamforth and Cllr Anna Fradgley carried out parking surveys on Thursday, January 5 and Saturday January 7 and have also carried out interviews with shoppers and traders.

Cllr Fradgley said: "We are finding drivers are avoiding the car parks. On the Saturday morning, the busiest trading day in the village, Davies Way had an occupancy of 58 per cent and Pepper Street an occupancy of 65 per cent."

"It is evident that cars are finding on-road parking spaces not used previously and walking into the village."

"Danebank Road is a concern. Many more cars are double parking which is causing major traffic congestion on a road used by large lorries and tractors to avoid the weight restricted village centre bridge. Residents are informing me of near misses on that road."

"More cars are parking along Rosebank and Pepper Street creating a nuisance for residents."

Many people were calling for traffic calming measures – particularly since an accident on Higher Lane in which a motor cyclist was injured and had to be airlifted to hospital.

Cllr Bamforth said: "The opinions of residents remain unchanged. They want the one hour free parking back."

"Now the changes are in place there is more anger than before. People come into the village for the chemist and those on free prescriptions are finding they must pay for what should be a free visit. I spoke to one mother of a diabetic child who regularly visits Lymm for his medication. She told me she always pays, as 15 minutes is never enough time in the chemist. This is unfair."

"Traders are finding that people are either not coming into Lymm at all or are just dashing in and out, not taking time to browse. Many commented on how much quieter the village is compared to previous Januarys. Takings were definitely down over Christmas."

"I don't think the borough council is taking this seriously enough. We need to restore the free one hour as soon as possible for damage limitation."

Cllr Fradgley claims the borough estimates it will receive income of £321,020 from the parking changes in Lymm and Stockton Heath – an increase of £22,000.

Volunteers win prestigious award

VOLUNTEER group Friends of Spud Wood, from Lymm has won a prestigious Volunteer of the Year award from the Woodland Trust.

The group was recognised with the charity's Willow Award at the charity's annual awards ceremony and lunch.

Woodland Trust president Beccy Speight made the presentation and the group was nominated for the award by Neil Oxley.

The Friends were set up to support the Trust in Spud Wood, off Oughtrington Lane, in 2010. The group has helped with coppicing along paths and carrying out visitor surveys. Over recent years they have delivered a bat walk and an ecological survey with local schoolchildren. In 2014 they started to thin the wood which helps let light in and promotes a diverse range of species.

In a statement, the Friends said: "The FoSW are very pleased to have the support and encouragement of The Woodland Trust as the work we do is very close to their hearts. We really appreciate the recognition of our efforts but would willingly keep on doing what we are doing regardless."

Neil Oxley said: "I am very pleased that the friends group have won this award. They are a great help to me in managing Spud Wood and it is nice that all their hard work has been recognised."

Each year the Woodland Trust gives awards to the most outstanding volunteers for their talent and dedication. Winners are selected from over 2,000 volunteers all over the UK, who in 2016 dedicated over 205,000 hours of their time.

Reunion of footballers from 40 years ago

A REUNION of footballers who formerly played for the Bull's Head FC, the Star FC and, latterly, The Dingle FC, Lymm, was held at the Bull's Head.

Around 50 former players and their partners attended the event hosted by current landlord and landlady John and Gloria.

The reunion was based on photographs on the tap room wall at The Bull's Head and it took several months to track down the people in the pictures.

Although many are still in Lymm or Warrington, others came from as far afield as Nuneaton, York, Wales and Ipswich.

The evening was voted a huge success, with team-mates from up to 40 years ago meeting up to exchange memories and stories of events on and off the field.

"Granny flat" plan is deferred

PLANNING chiefs have put off a decision on an application to convert a double garage into a "granny flat" at Lymm – despite having approved an earlier version of the scheme.

The proposal involves a property in Oughtrington Lane – close to Lymm High School.

Members of the borough council's development management committee were told the applicant was a registered disabled person and the plan was for her daughter to move into the property to care for her.

It was intended the applicant would move into the converted garage while her daughter would live in the main house.

The scheme had been approved at an earlier meeting, but an amended version had now been submitted. Officers recommended the new scheme be refused because it would have a detrimental effect on the openness of the Green Belt and the applicant's needs could be met by the earlier, approved, scheme.

But councillors deferred a decision to enable more information to be provided.
