LYMM Youth club is once again facing an uncertain future despite the valiant efforts of the hard working volunteers who have been working hard to improve the village centre facility. (see feature on centre pages).

No matter how much hard work goes into improving the facility I fear the council will eventually look to off load the site to generate additional revenue as they look to raise funds from various "assets" across the town.

While it is great to see the community pulling together and working hard to provide a much needed facility for our young people, I do hope it is not all in vain.

Lymm Youth Club has had a long and lively history and should be an integral part of our community, providing our young citizens with a safe haven in the village centre to meet up and participate in a wide variety of activities.

When we had the luxury of a full-time youth worker based at the youth club, it provided a venue for various activities, including Duke of Edinburgh awards.

Of course the full-time youth worker disappeared a long time ago as part of council "efficiency savings" which are once again in full swing as Warrington Borough Council looks to fill a £30 million black hole in its budget.

I do hope our elected councillors who represent Lymm on the borough council think long and hard before any decisions are made on the future of Lymm Youth Club.

Our elected representatives are in charge of the purse strings and forcing the closure of the youth club without having a viable alternative would be very short-sighted.

Road works

Meanwhile the road works to renew the gas mains are now under way and village traders are appealing to villagers to continue to support local shops.

It has been a tough start to the year for many businesses with the recession and the bad weather, so I would echo that appeal and urge readers to support your local traders and shop local!

New lease of life for Lymm

NEW sights and experiences are available in Lymm, following completion of an ambitious project involving borough and parish councils and local residents and groups.

The Lymm's Life Project has taken a lot of hard work over several years - but it is now finished and has already helped retain Green Flag status for Lymm Dam for a second year.

Members of the Lymm Environment and Heritage Group (LEHG) along with staff from the borough's environment and regeneration directorate worked together on the innovative project, which includes the Lymm Heritage Trail, woodland management, excavation of the iron slitting mill in Slitten Gorge and an upgrade of Lymm Dam's footpath network together with an "Easy Access Trail" and newly constructed visitor car park.

The project was funded by contributions from the borough and parish councils, the Heritage Lottery Fund, Waste Recycling Environmental, Local Heritage Initiative and the Countryside Agency.

Among the project's features are:
Lymm Heritage Trail: a 3.5 mile self-guided trail created by the borough's ranger service, Lymm Parish council and Lymm and district Local History Society, featuring a series of information panels.

Easy Access Trail: Built in partnership with Groundwork Mersey Valley, offers a circular route around Lymm Dam on surfaced paths.

Slitting Mill Excavation: carried out by Oxford Archaeology North (OAN) who identified the mill as probably the best surviving example in the country and now open to the public.

Car park: An upgrade and extension of the visitor car park on Crouchley Lane.

In addition to these works, LEHG and the council have been working in partnership with Bay Malton Angling Club on an angling development plan for Lymm Dam.

Angling facilities are being upgraded in keeping with the site's character, while the plan also considers habitat preservation and better access to the water's edge for all site users.

Coun Alan Litton, the borough council's executive member for environment and transport, said: "This project represents a great example of team working. None of this would have happened without the commitment and hard work of many people including local residents, the LEHG, ward members, the council's environment services as well as all our partners."

"Now that we have also achieved and retained Green Flag status, it gives us a bench mark to aim for and will help ensure the improvements of the last few years are sustained in future years."

Lymm pair have 'The Gift'

TWO Lymm friends are fast making a name for themselves on the North West music scene as part of the rock band 'The Gift'.

Mark Hodgson plays lead guitar and Neil Myatt drums in the band, which regularly plays The Academy in Manchester and has been compared to legendary 'grunge' group Nirvana.

The pair first formed a band at Lymm High School where they met in 1997, aged 17 and have been involved in bands together ever since.

The group, which also includes singer Niall Markey and rhythm guitarist Richie Meadowcroft has a growing fan base of more than 10,000 internationally and has had recent interest from a recording label.

Mark, 29, said: "We have spent most of 2009 in the studio writing and recording our music. We always put on a great show and have a really good following. There aren't many places to gig in Lymm but we'd love to have more fans from our home town.

"Me and Niall spend most of our time writing the songs and are constantly coming up with new ideas. We have just finished recording our debut EP which has five really strong tracks on it."

The Gift has also done a succession of charity gigs, the most recent for Ugandaaid, where they often throw in a few rock covers.

Neil, also 29, said: "We will always do charity gigs as it's a great way to raise money by people coming to watch live music and enjoying themselves knowing that they are helping others. We always have a good time and it gives our fans a chance to watch us do some classic rock covers like AC/DC and Queen."

The band's next gig is at Night & Day in Manchester on February 25 and fans can keep up to date with their news at www.myspace.com/thegiftmanchester and their page on Facebook.

Lymm band live and unsigned

A LYMM band is hoping to win a recording contract when it battles against other bands performing in the 'Live and Unsigned 2010' shows.

'Cheap Cuts' wowed judges at an audition to secure a spot in the regional heats show at The Willows in Salford on March 7.

They are hoping to win the chance to play at the Live and Unsigned Festival at the O2 Arena in London.

The overall winner of the competition is offered a recording and management contract with Future Music with an investment of up to £30,000 to release their single.

'Cheap Cuts' (pictured below) regularly play at The Venue in Lymm. Alley Clarke, from The Venue, said: "They are all very talented, popular local lads and I think they have the ability to do really well."

Lions provide home comforts

LYMM Lions visited Cotebrook Home and presented a cheque for £150 towards residents' comforts.

Cotebrook House, Lymm, is run as a charity, providing a home and day centre for people who require extra care, and such donations, which are used to help residents live life to the full.

Volunteers wanted for Sahara stomp

ADVENTUROUS people are being urged to go on a trek through the Sahara Desert to raise money for a children's charity.

The Children's Adventure Farm Trust, at Millington, near Lymm, is asking people to take part in The Sahara Stomp on November 18-23.

Minimum sponsorship is £1775 and there is a £150 registration fee.

The trek takes in the breathtaking Sahara and will be hot and tough. But with the High Atlas Mountains as a backdrop it will be worth it. The money raised will help terminally ill, disabled and disadvantaged children from all over the North West.

Further details are available from Jenny on 01565 830053 email jenny@caft.co.uk

CAFT are also seeking volunteers to take part in the BUPA Great Manchester 10k run on May 16 and the British 10k London Run on July 11 as well as the Mega Corporate Team Challenge in September.

Chance to star in ABBA spoof musical

LYMM based event company, Communicado is casting the ABBA spoof musical, 'MAM I'M 'ERE', and looking for new performers to join the troupe.

MAM, I'M 'ERE' is a hilarious, feel-good, 70's-based romantic, musical comedy featuring ABBA's greatest hits.

Simon Plumb, the show's writer, who also produces the legendary Lymm Rugby Panto, said, "I am looking for a young, male lead and a support female who are in their twenties, and a chorus line."

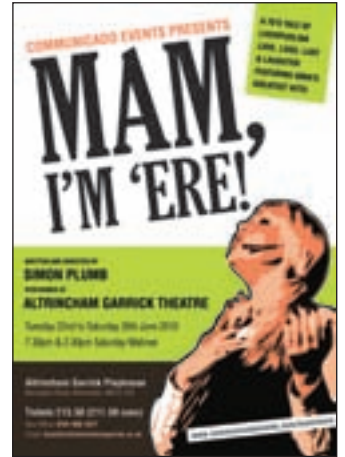

"This is a great opportunity for aspiring amateur actors, comedians and singers to perform in a unique musical comedy at the Altrincham Garrick, a wonderful theatre. I anticipate a superb atmosphere in a show where the audience laughs and sings along all night."

The MAM storyline is based on a young school girl in Liverpool who falls in love with her school sports teacher and local rugby player. Her 'Mam and Dad' run a local Drag Queen club and strongly disapprove of the relationship Auditions are to be held in Altrincham at the beginning of March. If you would like to audition for a part in MAM I'M 'ERE please email siobhan@communicadocreative.com or call Siobhan Thornbury at Communicado on 01925 755590.

MAM, I'M 'ERE will run from June 21 -26 June, 2010 and tickets, at £13.50, are available through the Garrick Box Office on 0161 928 1677 or email boxoffice@altrinchamgarrick.co.uk

Advertiser's announcement

Lymm TV launches at Lymm.com

LYMM based web design company Cheshire Web Design (CWD) has developed a brand new website featuring Lymm TV.

Seven live streaming web cams have been placed strategically around the village and browsers can 'pick their channel' to view different views of the area.

There is a media gallery with thousands of searchable images (and videos) of Lymm and surrounding area. Local artists have been featured throughout and local residents are being encouraged to add their own material to the website to create a local archive.

Local organisations can benefit from a What's On section which is categorised and fully searchable. Also included is a "Things to do" category which catalogues a wide range of activities and places to visit in Lymm and surrounding areas.

The site also has a Business Directory, including a comprehensive hand-edited local business listings which is also searchable.

There is a blog for regular updates and announcements and a community section dedicated to local schools, churches and associations, complete with history and contact details, together with hundreds of articles ranging from the history of Lymm through to Lymm famous residents.

There are also plans in the pipeline to add weekly quizzes, with prizes and several new sections, which are currently being developed.

To coincide with the launch there is £100 of Jessops vouchers up for grabs for the best shot of a Lymm scene, which is open to all ages, is free to enter and runs until the end of April.

Morgan's mini marathon

A nine-year-old Lymm youngster is entering the Manchester Mini Run in May to help raise funds for his favourite charity.

Morgan Bramill has registered to compete in the event to raise funds for reserach into Kabuki, which claimed the life of Lymm youngster Hannah Scales.

He has set up a justgiving website at www.justgiving.com/Morgan-bramill to try to raise as much money as he can.

Morgan will be running 2.5k and is seeking the support of Lymm Life readers to help him raise funds in memory of Hannah, whose mother Ann runs the Rushgreen service Station, where donations can also be made.

Follow the Brick Road

PAST present and future pupils will be able to contribute towards a pathway to link the old with the new at Oughtrington Primary School in.

Everyone connected with the school is being asked to buy a brick to build a pathway running from the old school building to the new extension, which will house two new classrooms, a hall and other facilities.

Work started on the new building last summer and is due to be finished in April. It is hoped that the pathway will continue to grow as new pupils start at the school. Each brick costs £20 each and can be bought by contacting the school.

Deadline for April issue is March 2

Time for a career change?

Changing your career for whatever reason is often a difficult time and the impact on the individual and families concerned should not be underestimated.

Now, during what is arguably the worst job market for the last 20 years, opportunities are few, and well qualified people wonder what they are doing wrong when yet another rejection email lands in the inbox.

"It wasn't until I got some help that I realised how much I needed it" says Richard, "Not only to help with the process of job application and interviewing, but also to have someone knowledgeable to talk to".

GKI Candidate Support run by Lymm based George Wealthall, has been specifically designed to help people change their career or get back into work. With 15 years experience of head-hunting, GKI Candidate Support knows the hidden markets and how to make the best approaches to employers.

They know what to present to a potential employer and how to make the most of your achievements. GKI Candidate Support offers one to one mentoring and group courses can be organised by employers.

"The trial interviews were challenging but really made me focus on the needs of the business and the job role and identify where my skills would fit. Ultimately, I feel more confident and better prepared for the job interview" says Aiden, whose role has recently been made redundant.

If you would like more information please call our free phone number 0808 108 1337 and speak to George Wealthall BA, MBA, to arrange a free 30 minute confidential discussion. Courses are run for individuals and groups.

Volunteers battle to save

LYMM's run down youth club has been a landmark for all the wrong reasons in recent years.

Its location, next to the Bridgewater Canal, in the heart of the village centre, should have secured its place as a thriving part of community life for generations.

"It's not the most attractive of buildings but it is so important", says Su Williams, one of a team of local volunteers who are working hard to see the club restored to its former glory.

"The building really belongs to the village and it has so much potential. It's in an ideal location and it could be used for so much more.

The future of the building hung in the balance last year when rumours of demolition circulated and an emergency meeting of local residents was called.

A group of volunteers stepped up to help, led by Neville Davies, whose father built the club in 1966 after asking local residents to donate £1 for each brick.

Over the last three months the team has worked tirelessly, for free, using donated funds to build a brand new kitchen, coffee bar and new ladies and disabled toilets.

"Dad's gang has done a great job so far," said Helen Davies, his daughter, who remembers the club as The Vortex - the place to be seen in fluorescent socks when she was a teenager in the 1980s.

"There's nothing wrong with the building, it's structurally sound and been given the all-clear for all the other safety checks - it just needs a face lift.

"It has a brilliant indoor space, it would be ideal for something like a farmers' market. I know there are lots of ideas being talked about. It really depends on what the borough council do now."

The management team needs to secure a lease longer than one year ideally, 10 years - to enable them to apply for grants which they hope will transform the building into a resource which benefits the most number of people in the community.

The building is still mainly used to provide lunches and toilets for people

re landmark youth club on Market Day but activity and usage is starting to pick up.

It played host to two visiting Manchester youth groups recently. Su Williams has just started offering tea and home made cakes on a Sunday and is considering starting a scrabble club.

Now the team has further ambitions to develop facilities to support local social enterprise groups, the neighbourhood and the local police as well as young people.

Steve Griffiths, a member of the management committee said: "We had a meeting with the Lymm borough councillors and they were very enthused about our plans so we're feeling very positive about the building's future. "We don't want to lose the fun stuff, like table tennis and Sunday teas but we would like to develop the club so that it offers something for everyone in the community.

"In particular we're interested in offering facilities for social enterprise groups. We've also spoken to the police and neighbourhood groups about how they could benefit from using the building.

"It's in the council's hands now but we're really hopeful. We feel like the story of Lymm Youth Club is only just beginning."

Campaigners seek political support

RESIDENTS campaigning for a safer A56 through Lymm are seeking the support of Parliamentary hopefuls in the run-up to the General Election.

The Higher Lane Action Group have been in touch with Conservative, Labour and Liberal Democrat prospective candidates for Warrington South.

Conservative David Mowat has met the group and promised his support. So far, it has not proved possible to arrange meetings with Liberal Democrat Jo Crotty or Labour's Nick Bent.

Action group founder Chris Wakefield said: "We were pleased to be able to meet Mr Mowat and were encouraged by his response.

"We explained that a survey commissioned by the council had revealed that most traffic on the A56 ignores the 30mph limit and that some traffic also exceeds the national limit of 60mph even at peak hours.

"Unlike most A roads in Warrington South, Higher Lane has very narrow pavements and speeding vehicles have an intimidatory effect on pedestrians.

"Mr Mowat was quick to grasp that really all we are asking for is that the existing law be observed."

A welcome for lower speed limits

LOWER speed limit proposals on busy Lymm roads have been welcomed by Coun Sheila Woodyatt.

She is now to enlist the support of police to ensure limits are imposed to put an end to "idiotic driving."

She said: "The national speed limit, 60mph, exists on certain parts of Higher Lane and the side roads. We get cars whizzing along, going like mad past people's houses."

"In the case of Higher Lane when it changes to 30mph, cars are half way down the road before they slow down."

Coun Woodyatt said campaigners had welcomed new traffic orders reducing the speed limit on some roads, or sections of roads, from 60 to 40mph. She was pleased that the 40mph limit was extended to the borough boundary, as this meant drivers would approach the village at a slower speed.

"It is proposed to reduce the speed limits on Higher Lane, Burford Lane, The Drive, Park Road and Agden Park Lane to 40mph. I am delighted about this," she said.

"I have had a lot of complaints over the years about speeding in these areas and have long been campaigning for speed reductions. I am sure this will improve safety and improve the quality of life for local residents."

Coun Woodyatt will be contacting police to see if officers or Community Support Officers can carry out regular speed checks on the roads affected.

"Whatever else you do, you cannot legislate for the idiots who take no notice and keep speeding," she added.

"In Burford Lane and High Legh Road, there are many older people and young children about - and the speed of some cars is ridiculous."

Coun Woodyatt is also campaigning to get double yellow lines implemented at the junction of Highfield Road/Boothshill Road, which have been proposed for some time. She said parked cars near the junction made it difficult for drivers to see if the road was clear.

"This has also been a long campaign which when implemented will dramatically improve road safety at this junction where there have been numerous collisions," she said.

LYMM 'Old Boys' looking for new blood

LYMM AFC are looking for new blood to ensure the club survives as it works towards its centenary celebrations in 2013.

Formerly Lymm Old Boys, the first team is struggling at the wrong end of the table in the Lancashire Amateur League, after being relegated from the Premier Division last season.

The recent bad weather left £1,700 worth of damage to the changing room facilities at the Sandy Lane pitches, money the club could ill afford.

Now they are appealing for new players and to the wider community to rally to help the club survive and be thriving in time for their centenary celebrations.

The club currently only has three teams a first and second team and a vets team and caters for players between the ages of 15-50.

Committee member James Slavin fears for the future of the club if it doesn't get more support from the local community and an influx of new blood to bolster the teams.

"We are looking to launch a third team for next season and would like to hear from any young players in the Lymm area who would like to come and play for us.

"We used to have five teams but lost a couple due to lack of interest and not enough club officials.

"We need to generate some new blood into the club to help us survive." Jimmy says the club wouldn't be able to survive without a team of hard working stalwarts including club secretary Gary Caldwell and first team manager Chris Whalley.

The first team plays on Saturdays at 2pm and trains at the high school on Tuesday from 8pm-10pm.

Any one interested in playing for the club or helping out should contact Gary on 07954 148986.

Lindsay's mercy mission to Uganda

A LYMM dental hygienist is to visit Uganda to help treat patients and also educate local people about a mistaken and dangerous traditional custom which involves gouging out unerupted teeth from baby's mouths.

Lindsay Webb, who has lived in Lymm for 15 years, will spend three weeks in Uganda with the charity Christian Relief Uganda (CRU).

But first she must raise £1,200 for the trip - and will be taking part in the Stanley Park 10k run at Blackpool on March 7 in a bid to raise awareness and sponsorship money.

Anyone who wants to make a donation can call her on 07966 169602.

Lindsay, aged 53, describes herself as a "novice runner" but is in training for the run.

Children's dental problems in Uganda can be very different from those in Britain.

Lindsay will be helping to educate local people about the dangerous tradition known as 'Ebiino' - or as termed in the UK, infant oral mutilation.

This is a practice in which childhood ailments such as diarrhoea or vomiting are treated by gouging out 'tooth worms' from children's mouths.

In fact the "tooth worms" are unerupted teeth, which are still in the baby's gums.

Lindsay said: "Of course the teeth are nothing to do with the ailment, but the practice is deeply culturally ingrained. Dental health among the rural population of Uganda is so bad that living with pain is an inescapable reality.

"We take it for granted that, unpleasant though it is, we will have to endure toothache only until we can get an appointment at the dentist. But for these people, poor dental health becomes an ongoing drag on productivity and economic independence."

CRU provides much needed treatment, free of charge, to these underprivileged families and has been carried out this vital work since 1996.

Lindsay will be making the trip in April.

Death of former councillor

THE death has occurred of former Lymm councillor John Thornton.

A Conservative member of the borough council between 1991 and 1996, Mr Thornton, was 78.

Prior to local government re-organisation in 1974, he was a member of the former Lymm Urban District Council and, at the time he was first elected, was the youngest-ever member.

He was active in community life for many years until suffering a stroke. He had served as both secretary and treasurer of the former Lymm Conservative Club - now the Bridgewater Club.

Mr Thornton lost his seat on the borough council after speaking out in support of Warrington becoming a unitary authority - a move which was widely opposed in Lymm. But he continued in public service as a local health authority member.

His funeral took place at Altrincham Crematorium on February 11.

Snow joke for Lymm WI

AFTER the disappointment of having to cancel the January meeting due to the snow, Lymm WI's February meeting was also to bring inclement weather.

About half of the members braved the slush to congregate in the Village Hall. The business section of the meeting gave them plenty to look forward to during the next few months. Lymm WI is presenting a resolution at the March Cheshire Council meeting at Winsford. The Cheshire Federation will be celebrating its 90th birthday with a garden party at Cholmondley Castle in May.

Once more it is time to start preparations for the Cheshire Show in June and as usual volunteers are required for stewarding exhibits and helping with meal preparation.

Meanwhile the handicrafts, rambling and literary groups all have activities planned during the coming month. An outing is planned to Slattery's Cakes in Manchester.

Guest speaker was The Rev. Paul Martin who gave a very amusing talk entitled 'Naughty Postcards', illustrated with slides from his own collection.

The next meeting will be held at Lymm Village Hall on March 3 at 7.30 pm when Paul Braun will talk about a Victorian scandal. All are welcome.

Help reduce Lymm's carbon footprint

LYMM residents have been urged to take part in an energy efficiency survey to help the UK achieve its ambitious target of reducing carbon emissions by 80 per cent by 2050.

The borough council has joined forces with the Energy Saving Trust, a not-for-profit organisation, funded by government, to offer free impartial advice to people wanting to reduce their CO2 emissions, fight climate change and reduce their energy bills.

The Trust advice centre, part of a national network, offers local people free expert advice on saving energy. It has written to about 3,000 homes in Lymm asking the occupants to take part in an energy efficiency survey.

The survey aims to gather information about the way local residents use energy in their homes and will take no more than 10 minutes to complete.

People who complete the questionnaire will be sent a free home energy report for their home, showing its current and potential energy rating. It will also show some simple things you could do to cut your energy bills by up to £300 each year.

Coun Alan Litton, the borough council's executive member for environment services said: "We would encourage every resident who has received a letter about the survey to take part. Only by working together can we make a real difference to the environment and, by taking part in the survey, residents will be helping us deal with climate change more effectively."

Anyone who has not received a letter can still contact the Energy Saving Trust advice centre free on 0800 512 012 for advice on how to make their home greener.

The Council and the Energy Saving Trust are both supporting local group Low Carbon Lymm who have more info on their website www.lowcarbon.lymm.org.uk

Many thanks

Barbara Smith, Lymm

MAY I express my thanks to the kind people who came to my aid when I fell in the street in Lymm village shopping area? Special thanks to the lady who went to notify my husband that I had fallen and also the gentleman from Lawlor's hairdressers who assisted me. Many thanks.

Objection!

Chris Wakefield, Higher Lane, Lymm

I AM writing to object to the proposal for a parking ban at the junction of Highfield Road and the A56. These are my reasons.

1. The ban is a sticking plaster-type solution that ignores the fact that the root cause of the difficulties associated with exiting from Highfield Road is that traffic on the A56 does not keep to the speed limit.

2. The removal of parked vehicles makes the road appear wider and this is known to make drivers feel that it is safe to increase speed. Therefore the proposal could make exiting Highfield Road more difficult at times.

3. Removal of parked vehicles will give a clear acceleration lane up to the 60 mph speed limit a short distance to the west. This limit should be reduced to 40 mph. The recent speed limit review (Phase A) did not take this problem into account.

4. The council did not give notice of the consultation period to all interested parties and therefore the process of giving notice is flawed. My argument for this position is that the Council Transport Department had already committed itself to a dialogue with a group of residents on controlling speed along the whole length of the 30 mph section of the A56 in Lymm. I am one of those residents and consider that this group should be consulted on all excess speed problems on the A56, of which Highfield Road is one, until the group's dialogue with the council is concluded.

5. Residents exiting from driveways on the inside of bends along the Higher Lane section of the A56 face worse problems than exiting from Highfield Road because of excess approach speeds. I ask the Transport Department to devise a speed control solution for problems that residents in many different areas of Lymm experience rather than devising ad hoc solutions that do not go to the heart of the problem.

Police surgeries

POLICE have launched a series of monthly surgeries at Little Bollington Primary School.

The meetings will expand the already successful Little Bollington Police Surgery to cover the Agden area as well and will offer local residents an opportunity to express any local concerns and speak with local officers, either informally or in private, on neighbourhood issues.

PC Mike Dawber and PCSO Andy Dolan are the officers for the Little Bollington and Agden areas.

Over the next few months, the Friday surgeries will be at 2.30-3.15pm on March 12, April 16, May 14, June 18 and July 16.
