WHAT has gone wrong at Warrington Wolves who have yet again failed to deliver despite having one of the top Super League budgets and the best supporters in the land?

A disastrous end to last season with five consecutive defeats, followed by five consecutive defeats at the start of this season, culminating in the worst run of form in the club's Super League history.

Yet on paper Warrington Wolves should have a set of players capable of beating anybody on their day.

Club owner Simon Moran moved swiftly at the start of the season to bring in the vastly experienced England and former Leeds Head Coach Tony Smith but things have gone from bad to worse, with Smith saying it will take time to turn things around.

Obscene

Rumours persist that some of the overseas players have not settled at the club, culminating in Aussie Test Centre Matt King making an obscene gesture at fans who were giving him grief during the 60-8 defeat at Harlequins. To his credit King issued an immediate apology within 24 hours – but his actions are not what one comes to expect from a well paid professional sportsman.

Gates are tumbling at the Halliwell Jones on the back of poor results and the economic climate and if the Wolves are not careful they will not have the luxury of being able to afford to continue paying top dollar for overseas stars – unless of course Mr Moran is going to continue financing the club out of his own pocket.

Perhaps it is time to turn back the clock to the days of performance related pay – with winning pay and losing pay and special bonus incentives for winning trophies like in the good old days.

With it being nearly two decades since Warrington won any silverware we now have two whole generations of people who don't know what it is like to support a successful team – yet Warrington still have the best fans in Super League – it is now time to repay their loyalty by producing a team we can all be proud of on and off the field. Check out the warrington-worldwide website for exclusive video interviews with Tony Smith.

Wireworks project back in the melting pot

THE future of the multi-million pound 'Wireworks' retail, office and leisure complex off Winwick Road, Warrington is back in the melting pot.

Prospective developers Modus have indicated they may be prepared to sell the site – but their asking price is too high, Town Hall chiefs have been told.

Consultants appointed in partnership with the North West Development Agency to provide valuation and acquisition advice had submitted their final report and there is a 'clear gap' between any offer that could be made and the value that Modus require.

The Wireworks development – which includes a multiplex cinema – was chosen in preference to the redevelopment of the existing Time Square following a public inquiry last year.

But the 'credit crunch' appears to have put a spoke in the project's wheels.

Regeneration

A report to the borough council's regeneration overview and scrutiny committee states: "The future of the Wireworks site has been discussed with Modus.

"They clearly have no viable development scheme."

Other private sector investors are said to be seeking to acquire the interest in the site and are expected to report progress within a few weeks.

However, work is continuing on proposals to improve Central Station and the surrounding area to link it with the new Bus Interchange.

A design scheme is almost complete and, subject to planning approval, work could start in the Autumn.

Take the plunge - for free!

FREE swimming will be available for the young and old at Warrington's leisure centres from April 1.

Anyone under 16 or over 60 will be able to join in designated free swimming sessions at their local Select Leisure centre.

The scheme has been expanded because previously it was available to the youngsters only.

Coun Roy Smith, the borough council's executive member for community services, said: "Staying active and healthy is important for all of us, the young and old perhaps more than most. So it goes without saying that I am very pleased to see the expansion of this scheme and hope more of you than ever will take up this wonderful offer."

Application forms are available at all Select Leisure centres, Broomfields at Appleton, Fordton at Orford, Great Sankey and Woolston.

Hello and welcome to my monthly column . . .

Hypnotes

by Michael Mahoney

IBS Awareness Month

APRIL is IBS awareness month. Irritable Bowel Syndrome or IBS affects approximately one in five of the population.

It is a common gastroenterological condition for which there is no known cure, nor is it fully understood how it starts and why it affects some individuals and not others. It is a common functional disorder of the gut. It is no respecter of gender, race or background.

It causes not only physical symptoms such as diarrhoea, pain, constipation, bloating, wind, cramping, alternating bowel habit and urgency to find a toilet. But it also has emotional implications which often become progressively worse. Emotionally it drains people, it reduces confidence and self esteem, it can cause people to become withdrawn. Some people even change their job, or give up work altogether to avoid the distress this condition causes.

It can reduce people to tears; some people choose not to go out or to socialise.

But medically this is a condition which is classed as none serious, in so much as it will not kill you, nor does it lead to cancer. However it is fair to say that for many sufferers, it does diminish the individual's quality of life. I believe anything which impacts an individual's life, and that of their families should be taken seriously. For IBS affects the family too, leading to cancelled days out, shopping trips abandoned, holidays restricted and generally it impacts social interaction.

However there is some good news. Medical science is working hard to find a cure; researchers are increasing their understanding of the condition. Also Hypnotherapy has over 25 years of medical research to back up its efficacy. The NICE guidelines for IBS even recommends hypnotherapy as a treatment option after 12 months of none effective pharmacological treatment.

For the last 18 years I have had an intense interest in this condition, simply because of the distress this condition causes to sufferers and their families. For the last 9 years I have taught hypnotherapists in the UK and Europe how to treat this most distressing of conditions. My IBS Audio Program 100 has been exhibited in the USA and was received very favourably by medical professionals. It is used by sufferers in 43 countries. So for any reader who has this condition, and when all else has failed, consider coming for a chat, or look on my website at the unsolicited testimonials from people who have used my IBS Audio Program 100.

If you know anyone who has this condition, you will be familiar with some of the things I have mentioned, please pass this article to them. IBS is serious, and should be treated as such. But there is hope, there are treatment options and processes that can help many sufferers, and this help is recognised by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence so do not give up hope or searching for your own solution.

Almost every working day I see or hear of people who are making progress, changing the way they think and feel and the way they behave, and moving on with their life again. It is one of the reasons I enjoy my job so much!

Spotlight on Business

Looking for finance for business?

*Ted Fryer
Barclays Business Manager*

EVERY business needs a sound financial base. As a business owner you may need easy access to day to day working capital, the ability to buy equipment or machinery or even the right finance in place to purchase your own business premises.

Having the right finance is also critical if you're thinking of growing and developing your business. If you secure the right funding, you can save yourself time and money and also give your business the best chance of success.

Barclay's business managers are accredited to the same levels as the recognised business support organisations. They are trained to guide you through the options available and help you make the right choice. We will cover how much you can borrow and the most suitable form of finance for your particular needs. To get the most out of a meeting, it would be useful to provide your business plan in advance.

The information we will need depends on whether you are already a Barclay's customer and the length of time you have been in business. But as a rough guide we will need:

1. A business plan setting out overall business goals
2. Two or three trading accounts, or less if a new business, incorporating profit and loss and balance sheets.

3. A personal budget planner showing personal assets and liabilities.

4. Forecast income and expenditure for the next 12 months.

5. Personal and business bank statements for the last six months if not an existing Barclay's customer.

We will consider the purpose of the borrowing and how it will benefit the business; the amount of the facilities compared to the owner's stake; previous track record on business and personal borrowing; character, skills and ability of the people involved; the level of risk; repayment and ability to repay; and insurance cover. In straight forward cases, a decision can often be made in minutes, complex cases within 24 hours. Our local business managers have substantial knowledge and contacts and are happy to provide guidance and introductions.

You can find out more about what Barclay's offer by contacting Ted Fryer, local business manager, on 01925 782130. All established business customers quoting WWW14 will be entered into a prize draw for a bottle of champagne.

New service to help victims of unemployment

A NEW ground-breaking self-help programme has been developed in Warrington to help those who have either lost their jobs or who are facing imminent redundancy.

Called 'Laid Off, Move On' the programme is being launched by Timeline Services Healthy Audio www.healthyaudio.com, a specialist hypnotherapy company based in the town.

The programme has been developed by Michael Mahoney, a professional clinical hypnotherapist and the managing director of Healthy Audio, based at the Guardian medical centre in Warrington. Mahoney is internationally respected for his leading work with irritable bowel syndrome victims through his IBS Audio Programme 100, as well as additional therapeutic programmes for many other health and related conditions such as breast cancer.

Taking a year and a half to develop, 'Laid Off, Move On' is an audio programme which uses professional therapy processes and guided visual imagery to assist individuals in coping with the emotional impact of losing a job. The programme sessions are especially effective for intense feelings of panic and hopelessness because the listener does not have to actively "think" through their problems.

When a financial crisis hits, spending money reserved for bills and necessities on emotional health might be the last thought in a newly unemployed person's mind. Yet when someone's inner resources collapse the energies needed to cope to develop new skills or to look for employment may become so compromised that physical illness can set in.

It is highly unlikely that a person in need of emotional therapy because of unemployment is going to go out and get that therapy. With traditional treatment fees upwards of £60 per session most people won't even bother. This readily available programme however brings invaluable help to just these people most in need.

The Laid Off, Move On programme is being offered at the competitive price of just £38.95 and comprises six therapy sessions based on techniques, which have been successfully used in the clinical setting with Mahoney's private patients. There is also a bonus ambient music track for self relaxation. Available as an MP3 download or on CDs (including a listening schedule) this programme is both comprehensive and cost-effective.

Confidence and self-esteem are often the first casualties of joblessness, along with changes in mood, which result in anger, blame, guilt and many other damaging emotions. Weepiness, panic, despair and other emotions are also common and must be dealt with before the individual can effectively move on.

"Several things are important" explains Mahoney, "firstly, an obvious thing, but one that is often overlooked, is the fact that it is the job which no longer exists, not the individual themselves. They still have their skills, knowledge, experience and much more, which they can offer to their loved ones and future employers."

"Secondly, understanding the emotions which joblessness brings is important. If we are aware of the emotions we should expect during these times and understand how the mind and body connection works, we can learn to use them in a positive way."

For further details of the Laid Off, Move On programme visit the company's website at www.healthyaudio.com

Pre-marital assets – who do they belong to?

by Paul Ireland, Widdows Mason

INCREASINGLY, the average age at which couples are now marrying is rising as are incidents of second and subsequent marriages. As a family law solicitor, I am frequently being asked by many clients whether assets that have been acquired prior to their marriage will remain their absolute property.

It is not uncommon for me to hear from clients that it would be 'unfair' for their estranged spouse to benefit from something which was owned by them before their marriage or even in a lot of cases before they even met one another.

The burning question therefore is what advice should be given?

When seeking advice upon this issue, clients often hope to receive a clear response as to what the outcome would be if their case were to be considered by the court. However, somewhat inevitably, I am obliged to respond that it would be dependent upon the circumstances of the case and the wide discretion which the court is able to exercise.

A clearer response is difficult to provide but guidance confirms that amongst many other factors the fact that the asset was acquired prior to marriage or even at the commencement of the relationship will indeed be relevant.

The extent to which this issue will affect the outcome of the case will, however, be determined by a variety of factors to include the nature of the asset, the length of the marriage and most importantly, the needs of the parties.

Finally, it is also worth adding when addressing this point that where somebody is entering into a marriage with a capital or pension pot that they would wish to protect in the event of a separation, only a prenuptial agreement will assist them in achieving this. Recent case law has placed emphasis upon such agreements and these should always be considered by parties where there is a disparity in their asset positions at the outset of the marriage. Whilst prenuptial agreements do not have any sort of binding status in law in this country, such agreements will at least serve to record which assets were to be considered by the parties as non-matrimonial property.

Churchgoers to run in London Marathon

TWO members of Padgate Methodist Church are running in this year's London Marathon.

Trevor Rhodes is a lay preacher and also the welfare officer at Bruche Athletic Junior Football Club and Gareth Roberts is also a member of Warrington Male Voice Choir.

The pair are already in training in and around the Warrington area.

Trevor started running three years ago when, to use his own words, he found he needed a larger size of jeans.

He is now back to his old size thanks to the training.

Gareth has been running for many years.

Both are running for charities – Amnesty International and Action for Children respectively.

They are hoping local people and organisations will sponsor them and anyone who wants to help can do so by logging on to www.justgiving.com and then typing in their names and the charity.

The race is on Sunday April 26 and, as usual, will be televised.

Floodline goes to the footy

WARRINGTON Town Football Club are celebrating a new sponsorship deal with the Environment Agency.

The Warrington based Environment Agency has unveiled new pitch side sponsorship boards, featuring their Floodline phone number (0845 988 1188), at Warrington Town Football Club to encourage supporters to find out if they are at risk of flooding.

Tony Dean, Environment Agency Regional Director, said: "Over 16,000 properties are at risk of flooding in the Warrington area. It is vital that people find out if they are at risk so they can carry out simple actions to prepare and put plans in place for if their home is flooded."

Through Floodline the Environment Agency also provides a Floodline Warnings Direct service to approximately 3,400 properties in Warrington, but only 57% have signed up. This service gives people advanced warning via the phone, text message, email or fax when flooding may occur giving them time to put their plans in place and stay safe.

Novel

Tony, continued: "We are always looking for novel ways to encourage people to find out if they are at risk of flooding and I hope that all home and away supporters call Floodline on 0845 988 1188 as the first step to help protect their home and family from flooding."

The new sponsorship deal is another major coup for the football club which has been re-launched this season with a new board of directors.

Other new sponsorship deals secured this season include Johnstone's Paints, Business Link North West, Warrington Borough Transport, Select Leisure, Warrington Collegiate and the Government backed employment initiative intraining.

Lifeblood

Warrington Town Chief Executive Gary Skentelbery said: "Sponsors are the lifeblood of the club and we would find it extremely difficult to survive without them."

"Our ambition is to move Warrington Town up the ladder as a town the size of ours should have a football club competing at a higher level."

"To achieve this we need to attract more investment."

"The club has come a long way off the playing field over the past 12 months and hopefully this will be replicated on the playing field - although no one can ever predict the bounce of a ball!"

Salon makes final at the double

YOUNG colourist, Chloe Oakes from JAKATA hair salon in Warrington is set to take her creative vision to the catwalk to participate in the competition of a lifetime.

JAKATA has won a place at the Regional Finals of the L'Oréal Professionnel Colour Trophy 2009. Hair stylist, Chloe, aged 17, from Bruche will be one of just four young colourists from the North West region competing for the L'Oréal Professionnel Colour Trophy – Young Colourist Award.

To arrive at this stage, Chloe saw off stiff competition from over 1200 salons with their stunning photographic entries. This is the second time that JAKATA has made it as a Finalist in this prestigious competition - and is once again the only Warrington salon to make it as a Regional Finalist.

Adam Carter, JAKATA Style Director excitedly commented: "Participating in a national competition of this nature is great news for JAKATA. It shows true inspirational hairdressing and we hope it displays the high calibre of young talent coming out of our salon for Warrington."

"This is the second time we have been nominated in this category – a serious achievement - we just now have to win it! The entire team is backing Chloe all the way as her work demonstrates the outstanding creative talent that all our artistic hair team strives for."

Utilising new media technology to overcome marketing budget

With every type of budget being impacted by the struggling economy, charities and small businesses are overcoming marketing budget constraints through the use of new media technology.

One way to save money is by blogging or using online social networks such as Facebook, Bebo or Twitter, these are all part of what is known as new media technology. As a company, we utilise new media technology ourselves by Internet Marketing, website marketing and e-mail newsletters. Internet marketing is a broad term that other forms of marketing fall under such as website and e-mail marketing; however, website marketing is about driving traffic to your website through the use of various forms of marketing communications.

Your website should be designed to be informative, brief and look clean, you can drive more traffic to your website through effective public relations, blogging, e-newsletters, leaflets, business cards and other marketing materials.

Blogging, social networks and public relations are cost effective because they are totally free. As discussed in previous months, one of the most effective forms of marketing is word of mouth. The people who talk about your products and services are known as influencers, they actively promote your service or product to others. That is why it is important to build relationships with your customers or clients.

Over the years, I have extensively used new media technology such as e-mail and blogging, as part of integrated marketing campaigns and have learnt what does and doesn't work. E-mail newsletters need to be informative rather than just an ad, whilst blogging is about keywords that people normally use to surf the web. It is easy to build an opt-in email list, just ask your customers and clients to sign-up or place a sign-up box on your website; you don't need extensive information, just their name and email address.

To date, Third Marketing has over 500 charities and social enterprises signed up to its weekly e-newsletter. Why not sign up today, by visiting www.thirdmarketing.co.uk

They all went bananas!

A COMPREHENSIVE guide to all things Fairtrade in Warrington has been produced as the town went bananas!

The Warrington Fairtrade directory lists all known retailers, cafes and restaurants stocking two or more products with the independent certification FAIRTRADE Mark.

It also lists schools, businesses,

Hosts wanted

FAMILIES are being sought in the Warrington area to host children from the area affected by the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear reaction disaster.

The explosion at the plant changed the lives of millions of Belarusian and Ukrainian people and the Burtonwood-based charity Chernobyl Children Life Line aims to help those affected and to show that people really do care.

Over the years, the charity has made it possible for more than 42,000 children to visit Britain for respite from their contaminated environment.

A group of 12 children from Belarus or the Ukraine, aged 10-11 years, will be staying with host families locally for one month from mid-July.

Charity organisers in Burtonwood are currently raising funds and putting together an exciting programme of events for the youngsters.

Contact Chairman Colin Frodsham on 01925 221614 for more details.

churches, and community groups which use Fairtrade products.

The guide comes in the wake of the successful banana eating event at Golden Square when hundreds of people scoffed bananas to try and set a new national record for the number of bananas eaten on a single day.

The FAIRTRADE Mark is an independent certification mark which appears on thousands of products such as coffee, coca, sugar, tea, bananas, honey, cotton, wine, fresh fruit, chocolates and flowers.

It is a guarantee that disadvantaged farmers and workers in the developing world receive a fair and stable price for their products so they can support their families and invest in a better future.

The guide can be picked up from local libraries, the Town Hall, the "Fair 4 All" stall in Warrington Market and various other outlets around the town.

The Warrington Fairtrade directory will also soon be available to download from www.warrington.gov.uk/fairtrade.

Warrington is a Fairtrade borough and has been since March 2006.

Smith faces huge task to turn around Wolves' fortunes

WARRINGTON Wolves new coaching director Tony Smith, the England World Cup and former Leeds coach, now knows the huge task he faces after the club's worst ever run of defeats left them rooted to the bottom of Super League.

Smith, aged 42 and a proven winner at the highest level, revealed he turned down a chance to join the club prior to the appointment of Jimmy Lowes when he was unveiled by the club as the man they hope can at long last bring success to the playing field. He said he "felt the time is right" to get back into coaching a Super League club.

"This is a big club with a big future. I had been approached before the appointment of Jimmy Lowes but the timing wasn't right and I had to say no. But after talking it through with my current employers I felt the time is now right. I am looking forward to working with Jimmy and I would like to applaud Warrington for not doing what a lot of clubs do and sack their Head Coach, sending them into the wilderness. I have worked with Jimmy in the Great Britain set up and he is a good coach with great potential."

Chief Executive Andy Gatliffe said the aim for Warrington was to bring success for their loyal fan base.

"In my eight years at the club there have been lots of ups and downs but there has always been a long term aim to bring success to the club.

"Tony Smith is well known and well respected in the Rugby League world. He has great experience and we believe he is the man who is going to take this club forward."

"I am delighted Jimmy is staying on. He is a tough character and I am confident they will forge a very strong partnership. I am hoping the fans will be on board with this and can see we are moving in the right direction."

Meanwhile Smith, who won Super League twice with Leeds in 2004 and 2007 and was runner up in 2005 when Leeds also lifted the World Club Challenge and reached the Challenge Cup Final, says he hopes to be able to retain the England job in a part-time capacity.

Exclusive video interviews with Tony Smith and Wolves players can be viewed on the www.warrington-worldwide.co.uk website

£4,000 is sweet music for band

MEMBERS of Warrington Brass won't have to blow their own trumpets - after picking up a £4,000 cheque under the town's Grassroots Grants scheme.

The band - formed 39 years ago - became the latest local group to receive a grant as part of the scheme organised by Warrington Council of Voluntary Service.

Since launching in September, Grassroots Grants in Warrington has made more than 30 grants to small, local community and voluntary groups, supporting them to meet the particular challenges they see in their local community.

Warrington Brass performs throughout the year and regularly performs at fundraising concerts for local charities.

As well as learning to play brass instruments, the band members are also taught to march and perform and are a permanent feature of Warrington Walking Day.

Band spokesman Peter Challinor said: "Four thousand pounds will allow us to achieve so much and will make a massive difference to the future of the band. Warrington Brass is committed to teaching young people to play and appreciate music. The band once again has a junior section, with 20 young members between the ages of 8 and 14. They are developing musical skills and socialising with people of their own age in a safe environment in the same way as many of the older members learned to become musicians."

"We found the process of applying for Grassroots Grants relatively simple and now we have funding to increase what we are able to offer to the community and reach even more people in need. I personally want to say thank you to Grassroots. It is grants like these that allow us to continue to support and help the Warrington community."

Nigel Bacon chief executive of Warrington CVS said: "Warrington Brass has been around for a long time and is associated with many events in Warrington."

Anyone who would like to find out about applying for a small grant or would like to make a donation to the Warrington Grassroots Endowment Fund should visit www.warrington-cvs.org.uk to find out more.

£1 million welcome at Bank Quay

IMPROVEMENTS worth more than £1 million were formally completed at Warrington Bank Quay station in a ceremony led by Helen Southworth MP.

A more appealing and easier-to-use entrance with automatic doors leads to a bigger, brighter concourse with big new windows, a higher ceiling and extra room for customers waiting to buy tickets in a new booking office. There is a more attractive approach to the station. Improved catering also features.

The biggest development valued at a total of £700,000 within the station is funded by Virgin Trains, Network Rail, the Northwest Regional Development Agency (NWDA) and the Department for Transport's Access for All scheme, in partnership with Warrington Borough Council's linked £200,000 project to enhance the station forecourt and approach. In addition, Caterleisure has invested £150,000 in catering facilities at the station.

There is improved pedestrian access, a new "Kissing Zone" for passengers to be dropped off or collected by car, an improved area for taxis, a new bus stop adjacent to the forecourt and better arrangements for people with disabilities.

Financially yours

By David Watkinson

Employer, employees, end of year returns to HMRC

Are you dreading the deadline of 19th May for the PAYE end of year returns.

The good news is that we at WatkinsonBlack do have staff who are dedicated to perform the payroll function for those people wishing to outsource this role. We currently act for 74 employer clients who have people on their payroll!

Over to you now:

- a) Do you know anyone in business who have employees?
- b) Do you know anyone who is about to start up in a business where they will need to employ people?
- c) Or do you have employees yourself?

If the answer is yes to any of those questions, then why not think of outsourced payroll. Why not turn to us, we can take the strain away from anyone who requires the services of a payroll department but are not large enough to warrant the expense of employing someone inhouse to do it

Once we have established certain relevant information the payroll service we provide includes the following:

- we calculate net salary payable to the employee
- we advise of the tax/national insurance together with due dates of payment to the HMRC on a timely basis. (This is usually monthly)
- we deal with the completion of P45's for starters and leavers,
- we can take away the headache of dealing with other aspects of payroll, i.e statutory maternity and statutory sick pay
- finally we deal with the end of the year paperwork, this includes the preparation and production of P60's and P14's (The P60 is the employee copy) The P14's are the HMRC and DSS copie, and these important documents are accompanied by a summary of the tax and national insurance payable for the tax year known as a P35 these documents all have to be submitted to HMRC by 19th May after the April Tax year. We are registered to submit returns online and there is currently a monetary incentive to the employer to choose this method of submission.

We would like to expand our payroll department and for that we need you, do you need US?

Our other services include:

- Audit
- Preparation of Quarterly VAT Returns
- Quarterly Management and Annual Accounts for Self Employed Sole Traders, Partnerships, Limited Companies
- Personal and Corporation Tax Returns
- General Best Book Keeping Advice
- All Aspects of Tax Advice

Please note that these ideas are intended to inform rather than advise and you should always obtain professional advice before taking any action.
