Editor's Comment

FOLLOWING on from last month's editorial I am delighted to report that a Lymm Traders' Association has now been officially formed and in fact the first meeting has now taken place - and what a vibrant and positive meeting it was.

It is now important that as many traders as possible from the village actively take part in these meetings.

Clearly one of the biggest issues on the agenda was the problem of car parking in the village.

It hasn't gone unnoticed that one trader recently displayed a notice declaring that the car parking problems were likely to result in the death of the village centre!

Strong words indeed - but clearly an indicator of the difficult trading situation caused by the slow down in the economy.

We have said on many occasions that car parking is vital for the lifeblood of the village centre and I am pleased to report that the parish council is now urging Warrington Borough Council to press ahead with a feasibility study to introduce pay and display parking on the village car parks, especially the Pepper Street one, allowing limited free parking for shoppers and evening and Sunday parking for local residents who have limited parking at their nearby homes.

While this may help a little it will certainly not resolve the fact that Lymm just doesn't have enough parking spaces.

Parish councillors would love to hear from anyone with any ideas on providing additional parking spaces - although it has been stressed that the May Queen field is a none starter!

Personally I feel we need a few more parking spaces within the village centre like the one outside the bank on Eagle Brow and the one near The Cross, meaning people can make a quick visit to a local shop without the fear of picking up a parking ticket.

I know the joy I feel when one of these rare spaces becomes available when going about my business in the village centre.

If we could create half a dozen more parking bays like this it would be an experience I could enjoy more often - and allow for that all important ingredient of passing trade for businesses which are struggling to keep their heads above water.

Finally just a quick well done to everyone involved in this year's Lymm Festival - once again it was an excellent advert for community spirit.

Developer shows support for festival

Peter Vella, Sales and Marketing Director of Crosby Lend Lease with representatives from the Lymm Festival, Cotebrook Nursing Home and Oddsocks actors.

PETER Vella, Sales and Marketing Director for leading developer Crosby Lend Lease, enjoyed the best of the Lymm Festival by attending the Oddsocks Theatre Production of "Much Ado About Nothing" and presenting the Festival organisers with a donation cheque for £1750.

He commented, "Thankfully the sun was shining for the Oddsocks actors and it was great to get up on the stage and join in the fun! The production was very well attended and it was good to see so many people turn out with their friends, picnics and deckchairs to have a good time. The sense of community spirit is something we are proud to be part of with our new development, Beechwood, on Sandy Lane in Lymm and our support of the Lymm Festival is the first of many other community activities already planned in the area for the remainder of the year."

Village traders' association formed

SHOPKEEPERS and other business people at Lymm have agreed to set up a village traders' association.

More than 20 traders attended an inaugural meeting at the Spread Eagle hotel chaired by Philip Sexton, of Sexton's Village Bakery.

Borough and parish councillor Bob Barr also attended to advise on local authority issues.

Topics discussed included the possibility of a one-way traffic system with on-street parking, Pay and Display parking and parking problems generally, policing, CCTV and general security and improvements to the village.

The Thursday market also came under discussion with some traders believing it contributed little to the village and others suggesting it be improved or moved "on street."

The activities of the borough council's parking wardens came under fire with several traders giving examples of wardens acting irresponsibly.

Increased parking provision was given a high priority, but the difficulties were also highlighted.

Aerial pictures of Lymm showed only three areas where additional parking could be provided - the May Queen Field, Lymm Rugby Club and Lymm Tennis Club.

The traders intend to hold regular meetings in future.

Advertiser's announcement

Clean up safely this summer

AS the lighter evenings and warmer temperatures encourage more people to give their home a thorough clean, Ovenu, professional oven valeters, are advising people to 'keep it clean, but keep it safe' this summer.

Some of the most dangerous products in the home are used for cleaning ovens, with many containing sodium hydroxide, commonly known as caustic soda, which can cause serious chemical burns and skin irritations.

Ovenu, which has a network of professional oven valeters across the UK, is advising people to ensure they read product labels very carefully and to strictly follow the instructions to avoid any possible injury.

Certain oven parts especially the 'self clean' panels can be severely damaged with an application of caustic material. The Ovenu process uses an environmentally-friendly valeting system of non-caustic products to clean oven parts.

It involves dismantling key components of the oven such as the door, interior panels, fan and shelves and placing them into design-registered cleaning equipment. The whole process takes around three hours and leaves the oven, hob and exterior in immaculate condition.

Ovenu has again been awarded ISO 9001 accreditation, making it a quality assured firm. It is the only oven cleaning firm in its sector to receive such an accolade, for its outstanding training, customer care and management.

Paul Clark, from Ovenu in Warrington, said: "Although our advice is common sense there is a possible danger presented in these cleaning products if not used with care, particularly those containing caustic material.

"People need to be particularly wary of aerosol-based products, which emit the contents at quite a speed and not always in an accurate direction."

The affects of ear infections

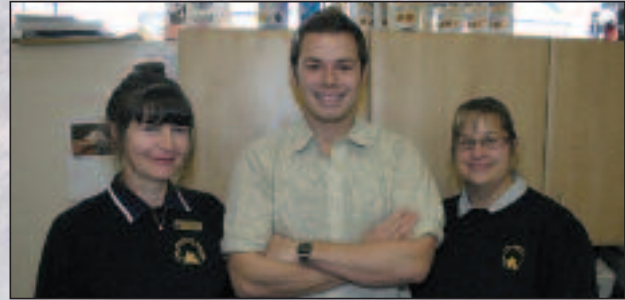

This month we will be looking at how ear infections can affect your pet. Ear infections are a very common disease of both dogs and cats. They can affect both the outer and inner parts of the ear.

External ear infections can be either acute or chronic in onset and cause alterations in the normal environment of the ear canal. These changes cause excessive wax production and thickening and scarring of the ear canal. Signs of external ear infection are head shaking, redness of the ear, excessive wax production (cat and dog ear wax is dark brown in colour) and itchy, smelly ears.

Causes of ear infections include ear mites, bacterial and yeast infections, allergies and foreign bodies such as grass seeds. Things that can perpetuate ear infections include fungal infections, excessively hairy or pendulous ears and excessive moisture from activities such as swimming.

Diagnosis of ear infections is made by examination of the ear canal using a magnification scope and quite often, swabs are taken from the ear to see which bacteria is involved.

Treatment is usually in the form of topical ointments which have both antibiotic and anti inflammatory methods of action.

Left untreated, ear infections can progress and cause permanent damage to the ear canals so if your pet is showing and signs mentioned above, pop them down to Lymm Veterinary Surgery where we'll sort them out for you.

Storm over takeaway plans

A STORM has broken over two separate plans to open hot food takeaway shops on the Heatley Mere development, off Birchbrook Road, Lymm.

The estate is already served by a Co-op store and upmarket hair and beauty salon.

But now planners have received applications for a Chinese takeaway and a pizza takeaway on either side of the hair salon.

Coun Sheila Woodyatt, a member of both Warrington Borough and Lymm Parish councils, said: "I have had more than 40 email protests in one day.

"People are saying the houses were sold as 'idyllic village living in a rural environment.'

"Now they are asking how this can be compatible with the stench of cooking and tasteless illuminated signs.

"No-one is objecting to the Co-op or the hair salon - they provide a useful service.

"But the idea of takeaway shops in such a location is totally unacceptable.

"The parish council is lodging an objection and I am asking that the matter be placed before the borough's development control committee with a view to both plans being refused."

Houses are still on sale on the development at just under £350,000.

Busy 'bees' plan a festival

VOLUNTEERS are being sought to help organise a new event - The B Festival - in Lymm.

Based at the Jolly Thresher pub on September 27, organisers hope to attract about 500 visitors between 12 noon and 10pm.

One of the organisers, Jane Holmes said pub regulars and the licensees, Karen and Alex Wilson, decided to organise the day to raise funds for Diabetes Research and St Peter's Church, Lymm.

She said: "It is called The B Festival because it is linked to the letter B. It is in Broomeedge, has bands and a barbecue. And to add to the theme, our logo will be a bee."

Attractions planned include music, a comedian, displays by a dance school, barbecue, stalls, bands and a variety of beers. Local businesses are sponsoring the event.

Anyone interested in helping at the event should contact the pub on 01925 752265.

Reprieve for sorting office?

THE Royal Mail sorting office at Lymm has been granted a stay of execution. Staff - who have voted unanimously in favour of strike action over closure plans - will not now be expected to transfer to Altrincham on July 14.

Talks have started between their union, the Communication Workers Union - and Royal Mail bosses to try and find an alternative site in Lymm.

The 14 staff have voted in favour of a strike, although no date has been fixed. But union branch secretary Dave Kennedy says the vote demonstrates the strength of local feeling.

He said: "We have repeatedly said we believe closing this office will rip the heart of the postal service in Lymm. Discussions are taking place to try and find an alternative site in Lymm, but similar talks were held two years ago without success."

Lymm Parish Council has already written to Royal Mail to complain about the proposed closure, saying there has been no consultation and that the move would hit the quality of the service.

A spokesman for Royal Mail said: "Royal Mail's delivery office in Bridgewater Street, Lymm, was scheduled to relocate to Welman Way, Altrincham, on Monday July 14.

"The premises in Lymm are no longer fit for purpose for either our staff or for our operational requirements because of inadequate access, space and facilities.

"The facilities at Altrincham provide better, safer and healthier working conditions for our staff.

"However, the landlord of the existing premises in Lymm has agreed to an extension of our lease so the relocation will be postponed to allow Royal Mail to carry out a full feasibility study of a potential new site in Lymm."

Skin Rejuvenation - What Does It Mean For You?

'Rejuvenation' literally means 'to restore a youthful appearance' and at Vive Cosmetic Clinic we are committed to helping our clients achieve a younger and healthier look. Skin rejuvenation is especially important because in our society many people associate a clear complexion with good health and youth. An active outdoor lifestyle or busy professional schedule can damage the skin, causing premature ageing. At Vive we believe this does not have to be inevitable, and would like to explain some of the treatments available to help 'rejuvenate' both your skin and your quality of life.

The major cause of skin ageing is ultraviolet light, which causes pigmentation changes in the skin. This can contribute to many problems, such as sunspots, freckles, broken blood vessels, wrinkles, and thinning of the skin. However, each of these issues can be resolved with the correct treatment and proper skincare. At Vive Cosmetic Clinic our doctors are experts in both surgical and non-surgical treatments, and offer a range of the most popular and effective solutions available. We believe in providing personalised treatments plan tailored to our clients' needs, and delivered by highly qualified and responsible practitioners committed to delivering the best results.

One popular treatment offered by Vive is photorejuvenation. This is the use of intense pulsed light, applied to the skin using a state-of-the-art Palomar handpiece, to reduce the appearance of brown spots, freckles, broken blood vessels, spider veins and numerous other damages to the skin. It can also be used to improve skin tone and pore size, and to reduce redness, flushing, rosacea and mild acne. The heat of the pulsed light dissolves the cells which cause pigmentation in the skin giving a more luminous and youthful appearance. The treatment is safe and is suitable for all skin types, and for use on delicate areas of the body - we specialise in treating the face, but can also help with problems on the neck, hands, and chest. Both men and women have enjoyed the benefits of this revitalising treatment, which we offer as a series of between three and five treatments with approximately four weeks between sessions.

For those who wish to improve the quality and appearance of their skin, medical microdermabrasion may be the answer. Microdermabrasion is the process by which the top layer of skin is gently exfoliated to reveal a healthier new layer beneath. At Vive, we have a range of the latest in medical microdermabrasion technology in the AccelaFuze machine. We use this tool to deliver a cool, soothing and painless treatment, which lasts approximately 30 minutes and can deliver a range of benefits. It uses a combination of exfoliation followed by a topical medical grade infusion selected for specifically your skin type. The AccelaFuze can significantly improve the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles, sun damage, acne, blackheads, oily skin, dry skin and a range of other skin complaints. Microdermabrasion is suitable for both men and women, and can reveal and fresher and more confident outlook for people of all ages and skin types.

For those who wish to experience the absolute cutting-edge in skin-resurfacing technology, Vive is proud to offer the use of the StarLux 1540 laser to improve skin tone and texture. Unlike some treatments, StarLux resurfacing is non-ablative, meaning that the surface of the skin (epidermis) remains intact during the process, resulting in minimal reddening, tenderness and recovery time (usually less than 48 hours). The laser works by delivering focused heat deep into the dermis layer of the skin which stimulates the body's natural healing process, forming new tissue and resulting in glowing, rejuvenated skin. Though the laser uses heat to treat the skin, it includes a patented cooling system which limits discomfort during the treatment. Results are immediate and since it only affects a fraction of the skin at a time a series of treatments is recommended.

The signs of ageing affect us all, especially those with busy lives, but at Vive we can help you look and feel your best. We have a range of treatments to suit all budgets, and are happy to offer a consultation to find out about your cosmetic goals, and how we can help you to achieve them. We will never force or rush a decision from our clients, as we know that cosmetic treatments can be a big step for many people. We operate out of the Spire Cheshire Hospital in Stretton, a comfortable and discrete base for our high quality service. If you would like to know more, call our secretary Denise on 07521 747102 or visit our website www.viveaesthetics.co.uk.

Boom time for renewable energy firm

LYMM-based renewable energy company Solarflair Ltd are enjoying expansions in both domestic installations and large scale commercial systems.

New work is being generated by an ever-increasing awareness of environmental issues, rising gas prices and an increasing number of recommendations from satisfied customers.

Using the latest Evacuated Tube technology, Solarflair can install a Thermal Solar System that can generate virtually all of a household's hot water requirements throughout the summer months and even provide a significant contribution in the winter. For an initial outlay of around £3500 to £4000 households can save money, provide a level of independence against the utility companies and help the environment. And the future looks busy as the utility companies announce further increases planned for later this year.

Solarflair have also completed a special 23-plot eco-housing estate in Yorkshire and have another planned for later this year, plus a block of flats in Northwich to be completed in August.

They are also involved in a growing number of large scale commercial projects including 15 panel installation at Edge Hill University – so successful they have been asked to install a second system – a large system for a sheltered housing project in Cheshire and will shortly be commencing contracts to install systems on new build school projects throughout Manchester.

Anyone who wants to save money and help the environment will find a solar energy system from a local, dedicated renewable energy business makes sense. More details, including a free consultation, quote and survey can be obtained on 01925 753795 or 07947 211733.

A sea of umbrellas.

IT rained, and rained and rained. It came down by the bucketful.

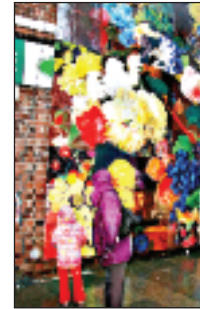

But it didn't stop hundreds of people turning out for the Street Fun and Food Fest - the launch event for the Lymm Festival.

Armed with brollies and water-proofs, residents packed the village centre sampling the wide variety of foods on offer from stalls erected in the street. There was Chinese, Indian, Turkish, Thai, Italian - oh yes, and English! - food served by enthusiastic traders who, like their customers, were not going to let a drop of rain spoil the fun.

Left, Sam Samson of Co-operative Food offers a fruit kebab to Nadine Rasheed

The Big Picture.

There was street entertainment too.

Attendance was down on previous years. But a surprising number of people did brave the weather to ensure the event was not a complete wash-out and quite a few shopkeepers reported selling out of stock.

Road safety volunteers wanted

A LYMM man is looking for volunteers to help promote a road safety campaign.

Rod King, of Pepper Street, became interested in road safety issues four years ago when he cycled more than 600 miles to Warrington's twin town Hilden in Germany.

He came to the conclusion there

High school hosts Triathlon

SCHOOLS from across Warrington came together to take part in a British Triathlon event to kick-start National Sport Week.

Lymm High School hosted the event which saw between 600 and 800 youngsters taking part in the swimming, cycling and running event.

Representatives from Great Sankey High, Woolston High, St Gregory's High, Bridgewater High, Cherry Tree Primary and Broomfields Primary, competed in the National Sport week event.

Vicki Underwood, PE teacher at the high school said: "The triathlon is a bit like the forgotten sport."

It was a really good event which will hopefully encourage more young people to take part in sport."

were more sensible speed limits in Germany in areas where people were walking or shopping – and he was impressed at the number of people who cycled on the streets in Hilden.

Rod decided to join others throughout England who were campaigning for 20 miles per hour to be the speed limit for residential roads, including organisations such as Living Streets, Campaign for Better Streets and the RSPCA.

He said: "There is no single organisation campaigning for '20's Plenty' as a single issue. Therefore, over the last six months, I have formed 20's Plenty For Us as a national charity providing resources and assistance for local campaigns seeking 20 mph in their communities.

"It has been a fantastic success. I have been invited to many conferences to give presentations and have presented evidence to the Government Transport Committee."

Rod, who has a small IT company and also helps run a children's nursery at The Rosebank Centre in Lymm, has set up a website for the campaign, www.20splentyforus.org.uk

He is now looking for volunteers to track progress of the campaign and help promote its work. Anyone interested should contact him via the website.

Advertiser's announcement

Blooming marvellous

PRIMROSE Hill Nurseries has evolved over the past twenty years from being a mixed vegetable, cut flowers and bedding plant market garden to a one-stop shop for colourful plants for your garden.

Primrose Hill now specialise in trays and pots for traditional bedding displays to made-up hanging baskets and patio pots.

They also work with customers to provide bespoke containers for special occasions, to order and endeavour to provide a friendly service with excellence as standard.

Advertiser's announcement

Going from strength to strength

FEEDBACK has been brilliant over our first nine months with customers returning time and again, often bringing visitors. We offer a wide selection for all occasions in relaxing surroundings with friendly service. While it is impossible to please everyone every time we are striving to get it right.

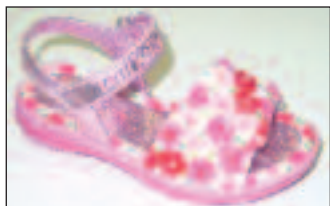

One thing that became apparent is that around one-in-three people require a wider fitting in footwear. A success story is Padders, providing comfort from E fittings upwards. This Autumn we will be stocking Emotion, combining fashion and wider fittings.

Another exciting development this Autumn will be the Bourne Collection, exquisite occasion shoes and bags with a designer look but a reasonable price tag. We are also pleased to announce that Lelli Kelly are doing school shoes this season. We will expand our hosiery collection, and will be introducing shapewear.

Keep an eye on our new website for developments, new stock and offers, plus the online shop on www.archesshoesbags.co.uk

Author marks capital of culture

POPULAR Lymm author Martin Edwards has based his new book, 'Waterloo Sunset,' in Liverpool to mark the city's celebrations as Capital of Culture.

Martin, of Baycliffe, is a partner in a firm of solicitors mainly based in Liverpool. He has written 12 crime books, many based in the Lake District, and the new title is his eighth featuring popular lawyer Harry Devlin.

He had also written many legal books, but enjoys the challenge of creative writing in his novels.

The latest title was inspired by the 1960s Kinks song – and it features in part the Waterloo area of Liverpool.

Martin said: "I am very excited about this book. I usually write about the Lake District but wanted to write about Liverpool to mark the Capital of Culture status."

The story begins with Harry receiving a note to say he will die suddenly on Midsommers' Eve – just a few days later.

Martin, who is married to Helena has two children Jonathan, 17, and Catherine, 15, who both attend Lymm High School.

He is an employment lawyer.

He writes in his spare time and says ideas come in a variety of ways, such as when driving or from a snippet of conversation overheard. It usually takes him about a year to complete a book.

His new book was launched at the new Beatles themed Hard Day's Night hotel in Liverpool city centre.

Rugby club looking for new recruits

LYMM RFC has already started pre season training, looking to improve on last year's Powergen North 2 West campaign.

They are looking for players of all abilities as they will be fielding three senior teams, a veteran's team and, of course, teams in every age group from age 7. In particular they are looking for players who can compete at the elite level as general squad strengthening is a major priority for this ambitious club.

The first team will be led, once again, by the experienced coaching team of Chris Kinsey and Glenn George. Richard Boundy has been appointed Director of Rugby and is looking at the club's relationships with local businesses and bringing a more professional approach to the senior set up.

This summer, for the first time, Lymm have fielded a rugby league team in the North West summer conference. If you fancy a beer and some good quality rugby league why not come along. For fixture details see www.lymmwolves.co.uk

If you are interested in any aspect of events at Crouchley Lane then contact on 01925 861254 or email richard.boundy@ntlworld.com

Happy times at Farm

AN iconic Manchester music star will be giving children at the Adventure Farm near Lymm a few more 'Happy Mondays' as he raised £5,000 for the charity on national TV.

Former Celebrity Big Brother winner and Happy Mondays star, Bez, visited the farm with his partner Monica, at Millington to present them with a cheque for £5,000 after taking part in a game show.

The couple visited children currently staying at the farm, who have physical and learning difficulties, as well as sampling some of the amazing facilities available.

Both Bez and Monica were introduced to the farm by Warrington based company BiG Storage, who have been working closely with the charity since nominating them as a beneficiary of their Christmas Toy Appeal in 2007.

The Adventure Farm provides much-needed breaks for terminally-ill and disadvantaged children and their families from all over the North West every year.

Each year approximately 3,000 children benefit from the work of the charity, which is backed by their President and football legend, Sir Bobby Charlton.

Dining Out with Lymm Life

at the Village Hotel

THE Village Hotel, at Centre Park in Warrington, has always been one of the most prestigious dining out venues in the area, but since its recent refurbishment it has set an even higher standard.

Contemporary décor and subdued lighting gives the Verve Grill restaurant an attractive, relaxing ambience with tables arranged in such a way that each party – whether a couple or a larger group – can enjoy their meal and conversation undisturbed by other diners. The staff are friendly and helpful so everything is set fair for fine fare. Expectations are high!

We were certainly not disappointed in our meal. The soup of the day was tomatoes and roast red pepper and was delicious. The fish starter was salmon and, again, was first class.

For our main course we chose New York Sirloin Steak, with hand cut chips and mixed vegetables and grilled rump of lamb with creamed white beans and spinach. We really thought both were excellent – and cooked exactly as we had requested.

There was a wide range of other starters and main courses to choose from but, in particular, we should mention the innovative hot rock grills.

You in effect cook these yourselves, to your own liking, at the table on your own personal hot rock. You can try fillet steak, venison, ostrich steak, tuna mignon or fillet of salmon. It's very different and extremely enjoyable. If you have not tried it before we cannot recommend it too highly.

The Village offers a good range of desserts for those with hearty appetites and the meal is complemented by an excellent variety of fine wines.

Altogether an enjoyable evening out.

Part exchange makes moving 'effortless'

LIKE all consumers in the midst of the current financial climate, Beverley and Gwennant Davies approached the property market with caution when they decided to move away from their three bedroom house in Altrincham.

Searching for a traditional family home in a rural setting but without any renovation headaches, the couple found exactly what they were looking for at Countryside Properties' Heatley Mere in Lymm.

Beverley commented: "With Heatley Flash on our doorstep and the scenic leafy surroundings, Heatley Mere provided the peace and quiet we were looking for, but it's not a million miles away from the neighbouring towns and cities.

I'm a head teacher in Trafford so my new home is close to work but we're not in the midst of the hustle and bustle."

Thanks to Countryside Properties' Part Exchange scheme, Beverley and Gwennant were able to be settled into their new four bedroom semi detached home within a matter of weeks, bringing their two sons, Nathan and Matthew, with them.

"Part exchanging our old house meant that all four of us were settled and secure at Heatley Mere in just five weeks."

Beverley added: "Home buying clearly isn't as complicated as it used to be, Countryside Properties are proof of that."

Gwennant added: "There's a lot of scaremongering going around about the credit crunch and I'd be lying if I said we didn't have concerns about making such a massive purchase at a time like this. But after thinking about it carefully, Beverley and I came to the conclusion that if we found the right home, with the right deal, now would be a great time to buy. And with part exchange, it's been incredibly straightforward and stress free."
