THE curtain has come down on another disappointing season at Warrington Wolves.

Despite some big name signings the team still failed to deliver when it mattered, falling away and badly losing their last five games.

The season saw the departure of club stalwart Paul Cullen in a bid to turn around fortunes but after a brief spell of success under new Head Coach Jimmy Lowes, normal service was resumed.

Silverware

Warrington have been Super League's under achievers since the launch of summer rugby and you have to go back to 1991 since the club last won any silverware in the shape of the now defunct Regal Trophy.

The club have moved quickly to strengthen the squad for next season, signing Mickey Higham from Wigan and Gareth Carvell from Hull and hopefully they will bring that little bit extra to the team to make the difference between being the nearly men and winners.

Success

During my many interviews with coaches and players (which can all be viewed on the warrington-worldwide video gallery) no one can ever put their finger on the club's lack of success on the pitch – other than the need for consistency.

But on top of that you need belief if you ever go on to a sports field without the belief that you can win – you never will!

Legend

Meanwhile the Wolves' footballing neighbours Warrington Town are at last moving with the times and have launched their own club mascot The Legend to provide some friendly rivalry for Wolfie off the pitch.

But as I have discovered in my new role as Chief Executive at Warrington Town it doesn't matter how much hard work you do behind the scenes to raise the profile of a club – it is the results on the pitch which really matter!

Hopefully Warrington Wolves and Warrington Town can both bring success to the whole town on and off the field – and to do that they will both require the support of the local community.

Starlights have new face at the helm

WARRINGTON'S award winning cheer-leading group, the Starlights, have a new face at the helm.

Sam Lippitt, aged 22, who has been a member of the team for nine years has taken over from founder Danielle Foulkes who has decided to take a year out to travel the world.

Sam from Cinnamon Brow, Warrington, was also one of the founding members and is now looking to continue the good work done by Danielle.

The cheerleading team is currently preparing to take part in the International Dance Teaching Championships and the British Cheerleading Association Championships, both in Blackpool, at the end of November and December.

"When Danielle announced she was leaving I wanted to ensure the Starlights continued," said Sam, who runs classes at Vida on Long Lane on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 6pm.

Rugby girls given civic reception

WARRINGTON Girls Rugby League Team were given a special 'civic' reception at Warrington town hall in recognition of their recent successes.

Mayor Coun Graham Welbourne, who hosted the event said: "The town is very proud of their achievements and this reception is to recognise they have a number of remarkable achievements under their belt, not least having two teams win in the National Rail Cup. This is the first time that has happened."

The successful teams were the under 14s and the under 16s who play in the North West Counties.

The girls have also recently returned from a tour in Sydney where they played four matches, winning two against physically stronger teams.

In October they will be in the National finals.

One of the players, Emily Rudd, has been selected for the England team to play in the Womens Rugby League World cup in Brisbane.

Hello and welcome to my monthly column . . .

Hypnotes

by Michael Mahoney

Opening the door to change

What kind of people come to see me for help I was recently asked. My reply was 'brave people' come to see me. Not that I am scary, or at least I would like to think not, but some people who come to see me are often in a scary place in their lives. Others perhaps needing a little guidance, or encouragement, others might want to simply change a negative belief or thought pattern, others might want more confidence or motivation, the kind of people who come to see me are every day people leading everyday lives, who want to better themselves, or to provide better for their families and loved ones. They want to progress in their chosen profession or career, others will want to find inner peace, or direction, others looking for more confidence or greater self esteem. Some people simply want to sound off in a safe non judgemental environment, and others may want to share ideas, worries or concerns.

The most difficult step is either picking up the phone to make the initial appointment or sending an email requesting an appointment. It can be scary to do this because it is an unknown. And yet people who do take that important step of coming for the initial consultation quickly find they are welcome, their presenting worries and concerns are explored and understood, they hear a simple but informative explanation of the mind body connection, which dictates their negative thoughts, and importantly they also learn how easy it can be to put a plan together to change, adapt or remove the presenting issue.

Conditions of mind and body can often be mitigated or removed. Long standing fears, worries or self limiting beliefs and self sabotaging thoughts can be reversed. And all this begins with a simple phone call or email.

Capacity

We all have the capacity to change if we want to, and if we are willing to take part in our own healing and development. Time is rapidly passing, the days and weeks and months are flying by, and each day we don't deal with our problems, is another day we carry them, another day they delay us or prevent us from achieving those things we want to achieve. And a time will come when we look back and see what we haven't achieved, the things we have missed out on, the opportunities we have let slip past us, the relationships which could have been so much better.

I acknowledge that change can sometimes be scary, but it is never as scary as doing nothing. One thing we can remember which may help at those times of hesitation is that fear is temporary, but regret is forever. So if you or someone you know is working through a difficult issue, or wanting to make an important change in your life, or you want to learn new ways of thinking positively, or to learn how to let go of those things no longer needed, consider picking up the phone or sending an email to me, both are on the left of this article. Alternatively visit my website to learn more about my services, or contact me for a free information sheet, and one will be sent in the post to you.

Vive Cosmetic Clinic: Top 10 For Men

With increasingly busy lifestyles, outdoor activities, and an emphasis on looking as good as we feel, looking after ourselves has become a high priority. Vive Cosmetic clinic at Spire Cheshire offers a discrete, high quality doctor based service advising how this can be best achieved.

These are the top ten treatments specifically for men:

Skin Care Range. This may sound boring, however a range suited to your skin type is much more effective than generic off the shelf creams or no skin care at all. If a simple approach is what you want the 'skin tech' range will provide the best result. If you can tolerate a more involved skin care programme the newly launched epionce range will give great results.

Sunglasses/SPF/CAP. This 3 step plan has dramatically reduced the effects of outdoor exposure in Australia and is highly recommended. Even in the UK regular sun protection factor (SPF) is beneficial, however on bright days sunglasses and a cap provide the best protection. This is essential on hot sunny holidays, skiing and sailing. You have no excuse. You have to get those sunglasses. We only provide the SPF.

Accelafuze microdermabrasion with infusion at Spire Cheshire is the first in the North West. A quick and effective treatment which can be fitted into a busy schedule. This will cleanse your complexion as a single treatment, and provide a more youthful appearance with regular treatments.

Easyphytic skin peels demonstrate the advancement in peels technology. This slow release, self-limiting peel is a convenient skin treatment freshening and softening facial skin with no visible flaking. Due to a different mode of action it works synergistically when alternated with Accelafuze.

Accelafuze/Easyphytic in combination gives great results.

Botox is becoming increasingly requested by men, particularly for forehead and mid brow lines. These lines frequently add character, however in some men these can become excessive. Our approach is to reduce these whilst maintaining a natural appearance.

Dermal Fillers are also increasingly requested, mainly for the forehead and mid brow areas. These areas can also be treated with other procedures, such as Accelafuze, IPL and fractional laser.

IPL (Intermittent Pulsed Light) offers specific benefit for weathered and sun damaged skin. It is the ideal treatment for pigment spots, facial veins and red skin areas. It will also tighten and rejuvenate to some degree.

Fractional Laser technology has revolutionised non-surgical facial treatments. The fractional laser rejuvenates facial skin, reducing lines/wrinkles and facial scarring. The cooling system increases comfort whilst decreasing downtime significantly.

Blepharoplasty. There are few non-surgical alternatives to this surgical procedure. Excess skin, particularly in the upper lids, frequently affects men more than women and in many cases can interfere with vision. Although an aging change this is frequently exacerbated by our lifestyle: outdoor activities, sport (rugby), and trauma. Surgical removal significantly improves field of vision and appearance.

Few clinics cater for specifically for men. At Vive our discrete, hospital based clinic and knowledge of the differing requirements between clients provide an ideal environment. Band tipped for the top the66 have been signed by top London management Hugh Stanley Clarke who has been involved with more than seventy major acts throughout his career as a former EMI and A&R boss.

WARRINGTON Indi rockers the66 have been tipped as 'one of THE bands of 2009' by the man behind acts including Iron Maiden, Whitesnake, Kate Bush and the Undertones, to name but a few.

Warrington music fans will get a chance to see the band in action at the Parr Hall as part of a Warrington Music Collective showcase on September 26. Commenting on his decision to sign the band Hugh said: "They produce great songs and live performances and are fantastic. They will be one of THE bands for 2009."

The band are fronted by Daniel Rimmer on vocals, with Mike Bee on lead guitar, Craig Harman on bass guitar, Paul Glover, keyboards and Ian Wilson drums.

They say their influences include Ian Brown and the Happy Mondays, The Verve, Led Zep, Pink Floyd and The Doors.

To hear the band, who are currently on tour visit their website at www.myspace.com/the66uk

Spotlight on Business

Free advice on regulation changes

BUSINESSES in Warrington affected by changes in various legislation including the minimum wage, pension schemes and insurance can get free advice on line thanks to Business Link.

The details of legislative changes that may affect businesses in Warrington and Cheshire have been posted on their website www.businesslink.gov.uk/northwest/ccd.

The changes are all due to come into force on October 1 which is the second Common Commencement Date (CCD) of 2008.

This event, which happens twice a year, is where key Government departments issue new regulations and make changes to existing ones. Some of these changes simplify existing legislation for businesses.

Changes to legislation are expected to cover the following areas:

- The national minimum wage
- Occupational pension schemes
- Employers' liability compulsory insurance
- Trade marks and trade mark applications
- Limited liability partnerships
- Doorstep selling

As a free and impartial Government-funded service, Business Link is a clear and authoritative resource which helps businesses understand regulations that apply to them and how to comply.

Peter Watson, Managing Director at Business Link Northwest said: "Clear guidance on regulations is one of the many benefits businesses get from using Business Link. We know that this is important information which users value, particularly this alert on new regulations."

Businesses of all sizes can also register to receive email alerts on the new regulation updates.

Go to www.businesslink.gov.uk/northwest/ccd for further information.

Company shortlisted for national award

A WARRINGTON based video surveillance company which helps airlines protect against the threat of terrorist attacks has been shortlisted for a national business award.

Daresbury-based CCTV specialist AD Group's subsidiary AD Aerospace – which delivers video surveillance solutions for aircraft – has been selected as a finalist in The 2008 National Business Awards, sponsored by Orange.

Shortlisted in the highly competitive IMechE Business Innovation of the Year category, it was AD Aerospace's FlightVu product range – designed to address safety and security concerns of aircraft manufacturers and operators – that really caught the eye of the first round judges.

Endorsement

The National Business Awards is fast becoming the most sought-after endorsement of corporate achievement in the UK, and aims to reward and recognise excellence, best practice and innovation throughout the business community.

Mike Faulkner, Group Director of the National Business Awards said, "While every category in our Awards programme is important, the Business Innovation of the Year, where AD Aerospace has been selected as a finalist, is certainly a key one. The ability to innovate in business is undoubtedly a vital element in the quest for a competitive edge."

Commented Mike Horne,

managing director, AD Aerospace: "It is gratifying to be in contention for such a prestigious award.

Leading

"Today our FlightVu video solutions play a leading role protecting commercial airliners, their crew and passengers, against key challenges in the air and on the ground including, since 9/11, the threat of terrorist attack."

A typical FlightVu application has a series of cameras linked directly to a display on the flightdeck, enabling the pilot to visually check the identity of someone who has requested entry to the cockpit. This means they can confirm that the person outside is a known member of the cabin crew and that they are not acting under duress before they unlock the cockpit door. Such systems from AD Aerospace are now fitted to a growing number of airlines worldwide including easyjet, Thomsonfly, JetBlue and Air Asia.

Nigel Petrie, Chairman of AD Group said: "I am delighted to see, once again, an AD Group company's industry-leading approach being recognised by The National Business Awards and wish AD Aerospace every success as they move on to the final stage of the judging process."

The final results of The National Business Awards will be announced on November 18 at a glittering Awards Evening held at the Grosvenor House Hotel in London and hosted by respected BBC journalist and presenter Andrew Marr.

For further information on The National Business Awards please visit www.nationalbusinessawards.co.uk, for AD Aerospace logon to www.ad-aero.com, and for AD Group go to www.ad-group.co.uk

WIDDOWS MASON – YOUR LOCAL LAW FIRM

WIDDOWS Mason was founded in Leigh over 130 years ago by Henry Widdows. Over the years a number of established local Firms have also joined the Widdows family, including Campbells of Wigan, Masons of Bolton and D. Hampson & Co of Shevington. Widdows Mason are now able to meet clients at any one of their seven branch offices, covering the Leigh, Wigan, Bolton, Hindley, Warrington, Runcorn and Westhoughton areas.

Whilst Widdows Mason are proud of their history and traditions, they also believe that their business has to be modern, innovative and forward thinking to meet the needs of 21st Century clients.

Widdows Mason have made considerable investment over the years in state of the art technology, including their computerised case management systems and telephone systems. Managing Partner Keith Freer says "In today's fast moving world, our clients don't always have the time to come into the office. Our lawyers are happy to take instructions via our website, the telephone, email or even by home visit. Feedback from our clients has shown that they really appreciate our ability to tailor make our service to suit their requirements and provide a second to none service".

The property department at Widdows Mason has built up excellent relationships over the years with local estate agents, mortgage advisors and major house builders which, combined with a focus on keeping in touch with any changes in the law, has placed them in an excellent position to advise any clients thinking of buying, selling or re-mortgaging their property in the coming months.

The recent expansion of the Firm's personal injury department has seen the move to a purpose-designed suite at the offices in Bolton town centre. Partner Michael Stockton oversees the department and has found an increasing level of queries being made to the Firm's website www.widdows.co.uk. All queries are met with a response from a Head of Department, ensuring a high quality of advice being given to every enquiry.

Indeed, the growth of the Widdows Mason website has seen an increase in business from clients from the South of England to overseas! The website is regularly updated, with reports being added on any important changes in the law, as well as useful information being provided on specific legal queries.

Widdows Mason are members of the Connect2Law group which is a legal network covering the whole of the UK and many European countries. The strength of the network means that Widdows Mason are able to support clients requiring legal advice in unusual areas of the law, including buying and selling property overseas.

Urgent action required to tackle flash floods

AN angry councillor is calling for urgent action following flash floods which caused tens of thousands of pounds worth of damage to Warrington homes as torrential rain overloaded sewers and drainage pipes.

Thousands of gallons of water and raw sewage inundated houses in Densham Avenue, Longford during the early hours, stranding residents on upper floors.

Not realising the health implications local children made the most of the conditions paddling and riding their bikes through raw sewage.

Fire crews raced to the scene but were powerless to help because there was nowhere to pump the flood water to.

Homes were flooded with water and raw sewage.

Two families had to be evacuated while others decided to stay in their homes for security reasons.

Coun Hannon said: "Densham Avenue is renowned for flooding. This has happened many times before."

"The forecast was for heavy rain - it could not have been more precise. The forecasters got it right."

"But no precautions were taken. No sandbags were taken to the area."

Artist Martin Trainer saw five years of his work destroyed by the flood waters and is angry that the council wouldn't supply him with sandbags because he is an owner occupier.

Neighbours eventually gave him some of their sand bags but not before the downstairs of his home and his workshop were under water.

Coun Hannon added: "Nobody seems to know why the flooding is happening. But I am demanding answers as a lot of peoples lives have been ruined.

"We need solutions and we need them fast."

Elsewhere in Warrington there were reports of flooding - at Lymm and in Sankey Valley Park. But nothing on the scale of Densham Avenue.

Fun day is knock out success

A COMMUNITY family fun day organised by the Shannon Bradshaw Trust proved to be a knockout success.

A total of 20 local businesses took part in the 'It's A Knockout' competition at Victoria Park, to raise money for local schools.

The Shannon Bradshaw Trust raises money for children in the UK who have life-threatening illnesses and local schools.

It was set up in the memory of Shannon Bradshaw, a young Warrington child who sadly lost her battle with Aplastic Anaemia in 2002.

Other teams taking part included Morris and Spottiswood Team who have carried out a number of different events throughout the year raising £1464 for The Shannon Bradshaw Trust.

The next fund-raising event is a Halloween fancy dress, including live entertainment, hot chilli and hot curry supper, karaoke, and prizes for the best fancy dress, taking place at the new Villaggio restaurant on Folly Lane in Warrington on the October 31. For tickets and more information please call Dianne on 0773 713 4211.

New discount travel for students

STUDENTS are being offered a new and improved discount rate for travel from Warrington Borough Transport and the borough council.

Learners aged between 16 and 19 will be able to travel on the buses seven days a week, 52 weeks a year under the new scheme at a cost of just £6 per week.

Under the previous scheme, the saver cards could only be used during term time and on week days only.

Students wishing to use the network service will be charged £7.50 per week as this extends to outside the Warrington area.

Coun Sheila Woodyatt, the borough council's executive member for Children's Services, said: "We decided to bring in this fantastic new scheme for students which will not only help them get from A to B but it's also encouraging young people to use public transport and travel independently."

Chairman of Warrington Borough

Transport, Coun Les Hoyle, added: "Warrington Borough Transport is delighted to be a partner with the council in the new Student Saver Card Scheme. We hope that by extending the availability of half price travel throughout the year that students will gain more independence, and benefit the environment at the same time.

"We are sure they will appreciate the reliability and comfort of modern passenger transport, and will consider using our buses for at least some of their local journeys in the future."

For more information about how to apply for a saver card, ask any sixth form or college in the borough.

Card users under the old system can show their pass at the Warrington Interchange and receive the new saver card.

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

Ex-Mayor who beat the Party machine

THE death has occurred of a former Mayor of Warrington who proved that it is, sometimes, possible for an individual to stand up against a party machine and win.

Ron Crocker, was elected Mayor in May, 1969 and was a member of the council for 23 years, representing the Fairfield ward where he ran a sub post office in Padgate Lane.

For most of his time on the council he was a Conservative. But for a few years, prior to becoming Mayor and following a dispute with his party, he served as an Independent, polling more votes than the Tory and Labour candidates in his ward combined!

He also helped found an Independent Group, which tried and almost succeeded to win other seats on the borough council.

He eventually made his peace with the Conservatives, rejoined and became Mayor. It was rumoured at the time that this was his price for making peace with the party.

Later in his political career, however, he went to extraordinary lengths – quite literally – to keep the Tories in power.

On his retirement from the post office he moved to Cleveleys but for three years made regular 100-mile round trips back to Warrington to attend council meetings. Labour and Conservative both had 29 seats but the Tories held all the committee chairmanships and the Mayor was also a Tory, all with casting votes. Providing Coun Crocker attended every meeting they could still control the council.

Born in India, the son of an Army officer, Ron Crocker proved his courage and independence of mind long before he became a councillor. He served in the RAF during World War 2 and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross after flying 55 missions over Germany with Bomber Command. He held the rank of Flight Lieutenant.

In 1978 he was commended by the Post Office and presented with a £100 cheque after tackling an intruder at his post office.

Mr Crocker died, aged 87, at a hospice in the Isle of Man after a lengthy illness. He is survived by his wife of 67 years, Audrey, a son, two daughters and eight grandchildren.

Organic veg producers team up

RIVERFORD Organic Vegetables has teamed up with Stockley Farm in Cheshire, to launch Riverford on Stockley Farm.

The farm will grow and deliver boxes of organic vegetables to hundreds of customers locally.

Riverford has delivered freshly-picked, great-tasting organic vegetables to customers in the North West since spring 2008.

This new venture with Stockley Farm will ensure that vegetables are eaten and enjoyed close to where they are grown.

Stockley will become the fourth 'sister' farm of Riverford Organic Vegetables, which has grown from one man, three acres and a wheelbarrow in Devon, to an alliance of farms growing and delivering veg boxes locally across much of the UK.

John Walton who runs Stockley Farm says of the partnership: "We wanted to be able to grow our veg box business to offer more people in our area a chance to buy our great-tasting local produce. Teaming up with Riverford gives us access to expertise both about growing and delivering at scale. We're really excited about the year ahead."

"As demand for our veg boxes grew, we were faced with the challenge of how to meet demand without getting too big," explained Guy Watson, founder of Riverford Organic Vegetables, "The solution was to team up with regional sister farms who share our ethics and passion for growing organic vegetables.

"It's not that easy to find farmers who share our values," continued Guy, "but John Walton talks with great enthusiasm about his crops and is someone who is open minded about new ways of doing things. I'm confident that this partnership will greatly benefit the local community."

Riverford Organic Vegetables grows over 100 varieties of good value, seasonal produce on its farms around the UK and delivers them fresh to the doors of local customers. By keeping the business to a manageable scale, farmers benefit from fair prices, shared knowledge and equipment and have an assured route to market for their produce.

Kate signs up budding stars

MORE than 50 new players have signed up for courses at a Warrington tennis centre thanks to the appointment of a development officer for the sport in the town.

Kate Halle, 27, has been coaching tennis in Cheshire for more than 10 years. Earlier this year she was appointed tennis development officer for Warrington and Cheshire.

The post is funded by the Lawn Tennis Association (LTA) and aims to develop the sport by increasing participation, identifying new talent and providing competitive opportunities for juniors.

Kate is based at Birchwood Tennis Centre, but has links with all clubs in Warrington.

Since January she has formed strong school links and delivered a schools' programme, which resulted in nearly 50 new players joining the Birchwood tennis programme. Nine of these are taking part in a new performance programme starting in September.

The centre has a strong adult section with lots of playing opportunities, a junior programme supported by the LTA and a team of qualified coaches.

Anyone interested in getting involved should contact Birchwood Tennis Centre.

Farmers' Market success

CROWDS flocked to Warrington Market's first major farmers' market.

More than 20 approved traders took to the streets to create a festival atmosphere and were joined by several traders from the indoor market.

All produce on sale had been grown, reared, caught, brewed, baked, smoked or processed by the stall holder.

A wide range of farmers' market produce is already available from the indoor market all year round.

Angling club celebrates silver anniversary

MEMBERS of the Warrington based Penketh and Old Hall Angling Society (POHAS) are celebrating the fishing club's silver anniversary.

From its early days the club has now grown to more than 200 members and has a thriving junior section.

One of the founder members Alf Smith, aged 87, a local resident of Old Hall for 26 years said: "I moved to the area in 1982 having retired from Manchester Corporation. Close to where I live there was a pool nestled in a new housing estate, the road to which was named Livingstone Close.

"At the time most of Warrington was run under the auspices of 'Warrington New Town' and the pool in question was and is known as Whitegate Pool.

"At the same time my local pub then was the Sportsman's Arms in Penketh.

"There were five of us drinking there who were keen fishermen but had nowhere to fish. To cut a long story short we got in touch with Warrington new town who offered us "Whitegate Pool" for fishing. They then installed fishing platforms to make it a safe area to fish. From that day to this we still rent the pool, although it is now in the hands of Warrington Borough Council."

The club officially started in September 1983 and at the time was known initially as 'Old Hall Angling Society' but soon became Penketh & Old Hall Angling Society after some members were from the Penketh area and wanted it incorporating in the club name.

Back in 1983 the club had one pool, about 15 members, no junior members and no matches organised just ad-hoc fishing on our pools.

Club meetings were then held monthly in a room at the Sportsman's Arms, Penketh.

Between 1983 and 1985 the society gained two more pools from Warrington new town, Brownlee's Pool in Shackleton Close near to Gulliver's World, which they still retain today, although the land was passed to the Woodland Trust to whom they pay rent and the third pool was Mary Ann Meadows in Westbrook not far from the local ASDA supermarket. Unfortunately due to persistent vandalism and pollution they gave up rights in 2005.

Frank Davies is the current club Chairman, who instigated fishing competitions for juniors.

The club expanded sufficiently and began organising matches for Adults initiated by former member Dave Smith

In 1991 monthly meetings transferred from the Sportsman's Arms at Penketh to the Bewsey Farm Pub in Old Hall, now known as 'The Maltings.'

A Junior development fund was formed in the 1990's which was set up to support specific Junior activities. Now all Junior matches are free to Junior members, food and refreshment is also supplied free at each match and a 'Summer Series' falls in line with the school holidays.

The club has a recognised Child Protection Policy and they are currently in the process of organising members to attend a 'Level 1' Coaching Course which is a '1st4sport' qualification and has been developed in partnership with the Angling Development Board (ADB) and the Environment Agency.

The Junior fund also allows free fishing equipment to Junior club members.

Club Secretary Paul Bryan added: "The club is moving with the times as it has to, especially when you deal with children and the requirements for risk assessments and health and safety etc.

"We are aware that

finances for most people are stretched, we are also very aware that today's Juniors are our future. That's why we do whatever we can to keep the cost down particularly for our Juniors. Whilst we have them at club matches or if we see them pleasure fishing on one of our pools they learn about things other than fishing, they learn about the environment, they learn about being part of a team. When fishing they are able to switch off from the pressures of school and it is a 'switch off' from computer games.

"Twenty Five years has seen a lot of changes, thanks to Alf Smith, Jack Crompton, Jim Galley, Rick Spencer, who started a great club, sadly Jack and Jim have since passed away and Rick is no longer a club member but he still lives in the area. Without their efforts POHAS wouldn't exist."

Alf is still active and still bailiffs and fishes the pool at Whitegate.

Here's to the next 25 years!

Hat-trick of awards for Morley

SKIPPER Adrian Morley was the big winner with a hat-trick of awards at Warrington Wolves' End of Season Dinner and Presentation Night.

The Prop forward was awarded the Players' Player of the Year, Vice Presidents Player of the Year and the overall Wolves Player of the Year awards.

A proud Morley commented: "I'm delighted to pick up these awards. Since becoming captain I have tried my best to lead by example. I'm just hoping after a big season I don't miss the biggest game of the year this weekend through injury."

Leading the praise for his

skipper was Wolves coach James Lowes: "He's been massive for us this year. He's done everything I have asked of him and more. With that said there are no bronze medal winners in my squad. This group is all gold medal winners for me. They have been fantastic and it's an honour to coach them."

Other winners on the night included Chris Hicks, a record breaker in his first season at the club, picking up the Back of the Year award, similarly Paul Rauhihi picked up the top forward gong.

Lee Mitchell was awarded Foundation Player of the Year for his fantastic work within the community and Lee Briers won a special award from the Supporters Trust in recognition of his 11 years service at the club.

Despite receiving a two match suspension earlier in the night, Rob Parker had something to smile about when the Wolves staff voted him Clubman of the Year.

Wolves Ireland international, Tyrone McCarthy was named as Reserves Player of the Year following some storming performances after coming back from a serious knee injury. Finally, Academy coach, Gary Chambers presented Liam Hulme with the Academy Player of the Year award.

For an exclusive video interview with Morley log on to www.warrington-worldwide.co.uk and visit the video archive.

Hicks named fans player of the year

AUSSIE signing Chris Hicks was named as the Warrington Wolves Supporters' Trust player of the year awards.

Hicks, 31, who was signed from Manly at the end of 2007, has been a big hit with the Wolves faithful, scoring in every round of Super League, a new record for a Wolves player.

He started the season on the wing but has filled in at full-back following the injury to Stuart Reardon.

Ben Westwood won the award for Top Tackler and Kevin Penny won the Try of the Season honour for his effort at St Helens in the Challenge Cup.

Lee Mitchell won Wolves Foundation Community Player of the Year, while Chris Riley took the Committee award.

Wolves' Academy player of the year was Anthony Whelan and Reserves fullback Yadd Johal took the Reserves Player of the Year title.

New bin service to boost recycling

A MAJOR change to bin collections is set to take place in Warrington.

From September 30 the borough council is scrapping the current five week, paper collection service and bringing in an improved, fortnightly one, which will take a wider range of materials.

It will make it easier for residents to recycle more and boost the town's recycling rate.

By the start date, each resident should have received all the relevant information packs and collection date stickers and most will have received their new bin.

Just to make sure, all this information and more will be available at the launch of the service at a road show, in the town centre on Monday, September 29 when members of the public can pop along and talk to the team about the new service and all their recycling needs.

The new larger blue bins which are being launched can be used for steel, aluminium cans and tins, cardboard boxes and packaging, glass bottles and jars, newspapers, magazines, envelopes, junk mail, plastic bottles including juice, water, milk, shampoo and household cleaners.

This scheme is in addition to the current black and green kerbside collection services.

Coun Alan Litton, Executive Board member for environment services, said: "This improved service is all about making it easier for households to recycle more - all we need now is for people to do their bit.

"We are all faced with the challenge of what to do with our waste and the council is constantly looking into ways we can reduce the amount we all send to landfill - this new service is just one way we can do this."

All the information about the new service, key dates, what can and can't go in the bin is included in leaflets to every household and on the council's website.

For more information, to check collection dates etc ring Contact Warrington on 443322 or visit www.recycleforwarrington.co.uk

Freedom of the Town as club unveil new Legend!

AMBITIOUS Warrington Town Football Club are allowing free admission to all home game throughout the current season for all children aged under 16 when accompanied by an adult.

Despite a mixed bag of results on the field, the club is netting some good results off the field after securing major sponsorship deals with Johnstone's Paints, Business Link North West and Newcastle College's Government job training initiative intraining.

The ambitious club, which with a new board of directors hopes to bring football league to the town in the not too distant future, now also has a new club mascot, the Legend, to rival Wolfie, the mascot of their illustrious neighbours Warrington Wolves.

The Mayor of Warrington Coun Graham Welbourne was also recently a special guest at the club along with Boteler High School pupil Micheala Whitaker, aged 15, who won a competition to design the new mascot, sponsored by local print company Print-Magic.

The Legend is named in honour of the club's best known former player, World Cup winner Roger Hunt, who was talent spotted by Liverpool playing at Loushers Lane more than 40 years ago!

Adults can get admission for just £5 on production of the voucher on this page when accompanied by a child.

Pictures show the new look Legend modelled by star striker Thomas 'Chops' Lamb and the Mayor with the first team squad.

Dining Out with Warrington - worldwide

at High Legh Park Country Club

DINING at High Legh Park Country Club is rather special. The food is good, the service is good – and the view from your table is fantastic.

The Mediterranean Restaurant offers panoramic views across the golf course which, on a summer evening, have to be seen to be believed.

Whether you are interested in golf or not, there can be few more pleasing scenes than well kept greens and fairways!

The restaurant itself manages to be bright, modern and airy while retaining a comfortable atmosphere – and from almost every seat at every table you have that view.

However, no restaurant should be judged on the views alone and it is pleasing to be able to report the food lives up to its surroundings and offers remarkably good value for money.

We started our meal with a delicious soup but there plenty of alternatives including stuffed field mushrooms with red onion marmalade and cheese, grilled black pudding with bacon and poached egg with a wholegrain mustard sauce or crispy sesame fishfingers with a hot and sour sauce.

For our main course, we enjoyed chicken stroganoff with basmati rice, beautifully cooked and presented. Fellow diners waxed lyrical about the pan friend sage pork with apple and redcurrant sauce and there was also fillet and Red Sea bream with rocket and tomato salsa. The vegetarian choice was leek and blue cheese tartlet with red onion marmalade.

All in all, an enjoyable evening and one we will be repeating. But if the attendance on the evening we were there is anything to go on, the Mediterranean Restaurant is extremely popular so advance booking is advisable.

Dragonfly with teeth

UNTIL very recently IR35 seemed as nasty as a toothless tiger. Now, however, it has regained its teeth thanks to a Dragonfly!

For many years it has been the practise of one-man limited companies to reward the worker/proprietor by means of dividends rather than salary, and thereby reducing the National Insurance payable by both the company and the proprietor. First introduced in the budget of 1999, IR35 was designed to ensure that PAYE, as well as employer and employee NIC, was effectively deducted from income that would be employment income except for the insertion of an intermediary into the chain.

It did this by introducing the concept of the 'notional contract'. So if John was the worker/proprietor of A Ltd which in turn had a contract to supply labour to B Ltd then IR35 said that the tax treatment of the various payments was to be determined not from the contracts between John and A Ltd and between A Ltd and B Ltd. Instead it was necessary to look at the 'notional contract' between John and B Ltd, and if that was a contract of employment then IR35 would apply.

Since 1999 Revenue & Customs have fought many cases over this legislation.

Many of these have gone against Revenue & Customs who have generally lost because the contracts included the right for a substitute worker to be supplied, and also stated that there was no control over how the work was done other than quality control.

But all that changed with Dragonfly Consulting Ltd!

Dragonfly's contract included the right to substitute alternative workers. However, the customer gave evidence that they would be unhappy if an alternative worker turned up without them having been vetted beforehand. The Special Commissioners ruled that this qualified right of substitution was not inconsistent with a contract of employment.

With regard to control the Court decided that, despite there being some gaps, with the contracts lasting in total for over 3 years this indicated control at a level beyond that of just directing the worker when and where he should work.

Having failed on the above points the Court further decided that the two further planks upon which 'IR35 Proof' contracts rely, intention and worker rights, were both of relatively little importance in this case.

It now seems that for a substitution clause to be effective then the right of substitution must be unfettered. This is a huge victory for Revenue & Customs, not only because of the extra £99,000 that they will now receive from Dragonfly, but also because of the many more companies that Revenue & Customs will now be eyeing up. We all await further developments and clarification of where this leaves a large number of contractors.

Please note that these ideas are intended to inform rather than advise and you should always obtain professional advice before taking any action.
